Generous French Loans,
Our Shooting News,
Red and White Men Go,
Snow Delays Death,

—By ARTHUR BRISBANE—

MIAMI BEACH, Fla., March 29.

A PARIS newspaper under the heading Politique et Finance, prints a list of loans made by France to foreign countries since the war ended. They total THIRTEEN BILLION, TWO HUNDRED AND SEVENTY-SEVEN MILLION FRANCS, not including a loan to Czechoslovakia, of six hundred million francs, made last January 20, a three hundred million franc loan to Finland, or a loan made to Polish railroads of four hundred million francs.

The French editor's heading "Politics and Finance" is well chosen. France has lent Rumania two billion and ninety million francs. Rumania, lying in the shadow of the Russian bear, is important.

FRANCE HAS lent two thousand million francs to Poland, plus four hundred millions lent to Polish railways. Poland, or Russia, and adjoining property, including the famous corridor taken from Germany, is important to France.

France has lent to neighbors near and far—seven hundred and seventy million francs to Turkey; twenty-three million francs to poor old China. This list of generous French loans to the various foreign governments helps you to understand why France feels unable to repay money borrowed from us SINCE THE WAR.

You know that this country has forgiven all sums lent to France during the war. We wiped that out, and requested only repayment of debts that France has incurred since the war ended.

President Hoover made a public statement to that effect and was surprised that it was never published in any newspaper in France except a couple of unimportant Paris papers published in the English language.

HAVING TAKEN from Germany so much valuable property, Alsace and Lorraine, cash, colonies, etc., France naturally feels a little anxious about her military position, with Germany and Russia on the east growing so powerful.

It is natural that France should prefer building up military allies in Europe to repaying money borrowed from us, but why should Uncle Sam be called "Uncle Shylock" by those that took his money and don't intend to pay? That seems an unnecessary touch.

THE NEWS continues as usual in our "highly civilized" country. In the Southeast two policemen are killed, troops ordered out to prevent lynching. Three thousand miles away off in the Northwest you read:

"Two bandits rob thirty passengers aboard train."

It was an interesting robbery, one of the bandits is believed to be a woman. Among men lined up and robbed were two detectives that had pistols in their suitcases. There is much authority in the pistol that points first.

GEORGIA REPORTS the killing of two prohibition agents with the shooter found guilty. In another corner of the United States, Basil Banghart, called "a member of Detroit's purple gang," shoots his way out of the county jail, wounds the jailer, commandeers a taxicab and escapes.

WE CERTAINLY live in a shooting age and the shooters themselves are not immune.

The Chicago Herald and Examiner says Frank Nitti, called "Capone's chief lieutenant," just back from 15 months in Leavenworth prison, learns that he is "marked for death." There is no joking about such a mark, and it makes the marked one nervous.

YESTERDAY Leslie M. Shaw, Secretary of the Treasury under Theodore Roosevelt, died aged 84. At about the same time Chief Bacon Rind, once ruler of the Osage Indians, passed on to the happy hunting grounds, aged 72. A cancer killed him.

Chief Bacon Rind was six and one-half feet high, and important from the white American point of view, because he was chief and adviser of the richest lot of Indians on earth. Oil made them rich.

How could large-hearted white men, carefully picking out the worst lands to give to the Indians, imagine that oil worth hundreds of millions was hidden under those barren lands?

DID THE white man's statesman and the Osage chief travel together on the mysterious journey that we all take when life ends? Did one go to one Heaven, the other to another Heaven?

Is one an Indian and the other a white man in the future life, or are both totally unlike Indians and white men?

PLAYWRIGHTS HAVE invented many ways of saving a condemned man at the last minute, but none ever invented circumstances such as delayed the execution of Quincy Wallandz. Convicted of killing his wife, he was to have died in the electric chair in Rockview Penitentiary, Pa., at 7 a. m. yesterday. The chair was ready, so was Wallandz, but there were no witnesses.

A snowstorm delayed them and gave Wallandz, with heavy snow a foot deep all around his prison, two hours more to reflect on the strangeness of life, while we might reflect on the kind of civilization that disgraces modern science by making it the servant of ancient

FLIES TO HOME

BULLETIN.

NORFOLK, Va., March 29.—(AP.)—Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, one of the three Norfolk men negotiating for return of the kidnaped Lindbergh child, returned to Norfolk by plane from Philadelphia shortly before 2 p. m. today.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—Declaring that he was as optimistic as ever, Dean H. Dobson-Peacock, of Norfolk, Va., one of the Lindbergh baby intermediaries, left for Virginia at 11:33 a. m. today by airplane.

Before hopping off, the dean said:

"I feel that as a result of this publicity that the happy ending may be delayed a little while, but I am confident there will be a happy ending."

Dean Dobson-Peacock, who with Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage and John H. Curtis, boat builder, have interested themselves in the return of the kidnaped baby, spent the night in Philadelphia. He arrived at the Philadelphia Navy Yard at noon yesterday and later conferred for an hour with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at his home near Hopewell, N. J. His whereabouts after the conference at Hopewell were publicly unknown until he turned up at Mustin Field in the Navy Yard today.

MOVEMENTS SECRET

The plane in which the dean left for home was the same one in which he arrived. It was piloted by Lieut. George L. Richards.

Dressed in a heavy, fur-lined flying suit, Dean Dobson-Peacock talked in the office of the Naval Reserve Squadron, on the south side of the flying field, while mechanics were warming up the ship. He said:

"Lieut. Richards and I got together last night and as a result of our efforts, I feel that we have accomplished something—"

He declined to say where he had spent the night in Philadelphia. He continued:

"I am quite aware that Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, of the New Jersey state police, has discounted our story somewhat. In my estimation, however, that was to be expected, for the colonel has been receiving thousands of crank letters and false clues.

STILL OPTIMISTIC

"Despite the reaction of Col. Schwarzkopf, I still remain as optimistic as ever, and I am now returning to Norfolk to take the matter up with my associates."

The dean was asked whether he intended to return to the Lindbergh home within a few days. He hesitated momentarily, as though carefully selecting his words, then said:

"I may do so. In fact, I hope so. I almost expect to, and I will say this: If I go back to the Lindbergh home within a few days, or a day or so, it will mean that I have something very definite to offer.

"I am sorry that I am not able to give more details, but you will appreciate the position I am in. When my companions and I got into this, it was our sole intention to help Col. Lindbergh and to be of assistance in finding the baby. We had no thought of any publicity, and we very much regret that this matter has come to light."

LONDON, March 29.—(INS.)—Gloria Swanson (Mrs. Michael Farmer) was confined to her home in Mayfair today with an attack of bronchitis.

SHOWDOWN SEEN

Negotiations for Return Of Baby to Be Slow, Curtis Believes

By JAMES L. KILGALLEN
International News Service.

NORFOLK, Va., March 29.—A yes-or-no showdown with the kidnapers is approaching, according to John Hughes Curtis, Norfolk shipbuilder, who has taken a leading part in negotiations for the return of the Lindbergh baby, kidnaped 28 days ago.

Curtis today said that negotiations were still in progress.

Curtis was asked if this "yes-or-no" answer would come soon. He replied:

"No, on the contrary, the negotiations will necessarily be slow."

Curtis said he had received no word today from the Very Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock, his colleague in the negotiations.

CONFERENCE PLANNED

Dean Dobson-Peacock left the estate of Col. Charles A. Lindbergh at Hopewell, N. J., late yesterday afternoon after conferring regarding the negotiations.

At the dean's home here, Mrs. Dobson-Peacock said she had received a telegram from her husband saying he planned to fly here and would arrive at the naval airport this afternoon.

Curtis said he probably would have a conference with the dean after his arrival here and with Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, the third member of the negotiating trio.

Curtis talked at length with the International News Service correspondent in his shipbuilding shop in the Atlantic City section of Norfolk.

He was quite affable and looked less tired than he had for days. He apparently had caught up with his sleep which he had lost in a mysterious mission over the week-end.

The shipbuilder is 6 feet 2

Killed by Train

GENEVIEVE BARKEMEYER

TRAIN STRIKES AUTO, GIRL DIES

A McKeesport high school girl senior was killed and her escort was injured seriously when a Baltimore and Ohio passenger train struck their automobile at the Ninth avenue crossing in McKeesport early today.

The girl was Genevieve Barkemeyer, 18, of 2118 Beaver avenue, McKeesport. After she was dragged from the wrecked machine she was identified by her father, J. V. Barkemeyer, by a doorkey in her pocketbook. Her companion, Wilbur Morgan, 27, of 410 Penney street, McKeesport, was taken to the McKeesport Hospital.

CITY TO RUSH JOBLESS AID PROJECTS

Plea Made to Speed Subway, Wharf Plans; Pending Improvements Start Soon

BULLETIN.

An open forum on the proposed Snodgrass plan for a $6,000,000 downtown subway will be held by Council at 2 p. m. tomorrow. President of Council John S. Herron said anyone who had views to present would be heard. After the hearing, the project will be referred to the Bureau of City Transit and the City Transit Commission for study and report, Herron said.

Plans for a solution of the unemployment relief problem by the rushing of needed public improvements were under way today with renewed vigor. Hundreds of men, it was indicated, will be put to work very soon, other hundreds a little later and eventually several thousand through a series of projects which, city officials and civic leaders hope, will include the long deferred construction of the proposed $6,000,000 downtown subway loop.

A majority of the members of Council today announced they favor the new subway and wharf improvement program offered yesterday to Council by Edward Snodgrass, Jr., and a group of associates. This plan will be discussed in councilmanic committee today and if a way is found to cut red tape, construction of a subway on this, or a similar plan, may be under way in a few months.

WAGES OVER DOLES

Immediate relief for hundreds in the form of wages rather than the proposed "doles" includes such projects as:

1—Completion of the Mt. Washington road from Liberty Tubes to Carson street, employing 400 men for four months. Council is expected to authorize the project at once. Bond funds are available.

2—The immediate re-employment of 60" men to complete projects stopped when Allegheny County Emergency funds were exhausted last week. Director Edward G. Lang, of the Department of Public Works, asked for $74,200 to complete the work and President John S.

A Suitable Symbol for Insurgent Democrats

THE DEMOCRATIC INSURGENTS in Congress have given Mr. Hoover a very agreeable Easter memento.

They have presented him with a re-election to the presidency in this year of grace nineteen hundred and thirty-two.

How delighted Mr. Hoover must have been this happy Easter to contemplate the bright colored re-election egg which the insurgent Democrats and the insurgent Republicans had so generously and so certainly presented to him.

Rabbits have always had something to do with Easter,—not everybody knows exactly what or why.

But everybody knows now that the jackass rabbits have laid at Mr. Hoover's feet this delightful Easter present that he hardly expected to get.

THE JACKASS RABBIT, as the emblem of the insurrectionary Democrats, is a fitting combination of the jackass, which is the appropriate emblem of the regular Democratic party, and the white rabbit, which is the accepted symbol of timidity,—not to mention stupidity.

The jackass rabbit, therefore, emblem of the Democratic revolutionists, expresses admirably and perfectly the interesting and obvious fact that this new bolshevist party possesses the brains of the ass and the heart of the white rabbit, and is therefore devoid of the wisdom to see its obligation to the nation, and devoid of the courage to perform its obligation even if it could see it.

Mr. Hoover, of course, can be grateful to the jackass rabbits for the pleasant Easter surprise of re-election to the presidency which they have given him, but the rest of the country has nothing to thank the jackass rabbits for.

The jackass rabbits have become a pest in Washington, a scourge, as they have been heretofore in some other parts of the country; and the only thing for the citizenship of the nation to do is to adopt the usual measures in dealing with jackass rabbits, and have a jackass rabbit drive at the election this fall, and get as many as possible of these destructive animals in a corral, and proceed to knock them politically on their silly heads.

NATURALLY, THE RESULT of this drive will be the re-election of Mr. Hoover, and that is not pleasant to contemplate; but anything is better than having the government of our great country in the control of jackass rabbits.

General Grant once said that no matter in what a desperate plight the Republicans might be, they need not despair, because the Democrats, true to their party emblem, would always do some jackass thing to give the Republicans the victory.

Until quite lately, the regular Democrats in Congress, under the able leadership of Speaker Garner, were making such a commendable record as to seem wholly to belie this statement.

Then came the great plague of jackass rabbits, like the great plagues in the Bible, or like the seven years of famine, or the seven years itch, or the great wind in Ireland,—something always to be remembered and deplored, something that will go down in history as the ultimate of affliction, the acme of imbecility, something to prove that after all General Grant was emphatically and incontrovertibly RIGHT.

WHAT THE JACKASSES did not do to re-establish the Republican party and to re-elect Mr. Hoover to the presidency, the jackass rabbits did.

They ran out on Speaker Garner, and believe you me, brother, a jackass rabbit may not be able to see very far ahead, he may not be able to hear the people's voice, even with those long ears of his,—he certainly is not able to think, he has proved that,—but gosh, how he can run.

They ran out in more jackassinine directions than had ever been known to exist.

PLEA ROUSES STIRRING OVATION

Members Immediately Start Work on Substitute for Sales Levy; Revolt Tamed

WASHINGTON, March 29.—Speaker John N. Garner, with a dramatic appeal to the House, today won the support of all parties and factions for the passage of a non-partisan tax bill to balance the budget.

The House immediately got down to business and members threw their support behind the Ways and Means Committee's substitute for the sales tax, voting special levies on luxuries and selected manufactures. Among these was a 10 per cent sales tax on cosmetics, jewelry, furs, sporting goods and cameras and a 5 per cent sales tax on chewing gum and candy.

Warning that unless Congress proceeds to balance the budget by passing a tax bill there will be "a financial panic unequalled since the organization of the republic," Garner took the floor and appealed to the patriotism of the membership to bury their differences and unite behind a constructive financial policy.

GARNER CHEERED

He said:

"I believe that if Congress declines to pass a tax bill, we will have a financial panic unequalled since the organization of this republic."

Members rose en masse and cheered the ruddy-faced Texan as he concluded his stirring appeal. Republicans as well as Democrats rose and broke into thunderous applause, in which the crowded galleries joined.

It was Garner's first speech since he assumed the Speakership, and he served notice that from now on he intends to abandon the pacific role he has been playing in the tax fight, and instead, is going to fight, on the floor and in the chair, for a balanced budget.

Near the end of his dramatic address, Garner called upon the membership to stand up and be counted. He declared:

"Mr. Chairman, I want to do something unusual.

"I want to ask every man in this House who will agree to vote for taxes to balance the budget to stand up."

HOOVER READY TO VETO BONUS

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—President Hoover announced formally today he was "absolutely opposed to the enactment by Congress of additional soldiers' bonus legislation," and indicated he would veto such a bill if passed.

The President, speaking at his regular press conference, stated that informal polls of the House of Representatives have "created apprehension in the country" that a further bonus bill calling for an outlay of about $2,000,000,000 would be passed.

Such action, he asserted with great emphasis, would undo "every effort that is being made to reduce government expenditures and balance the budget."

As he spoke to newspapermen gathered about his desk, Mr. Hoover placed increasing emphasis upon his words in reading a prepared statement held before him.

Concluding the brief statement, he said sharply:

Joyce Wethered's Engagement Broken

LONDON, March 29.—(AP.)—The marriage of Joyce Wethered, noted British woman golfer, and Maj. C. H. Hutchinson, also a golf star, which had been planned for next June, will not take place, it was announced here today.

Miss Wethered is 30; Maj. Hutchinson is 54. Their engagement was announced last November. No explanation accompanied the statement that the wedding was off.

SENATORS INCENSED AT U. S. RAIL LOANS TO PAY BANKERS

By WILLIAM K. HUTCHINSON
International News Service.

WASHINGTON, March 29.—A wave of senatorial censure threatened to engulf the Reconstruction Finance Corporation today in protest against its policy of lending money to railroads to pay off debts to J. Pierpont Morgan, Kuhn, Loeb & Co. and other Wall street bankers.

The corporation's $5,850,000 loan to the Van Sweringen-owned Missouri Pacific Railroad aroused the Senate's ire. A number of senators openly charged the Interstate Commerce Commission—a quasi-judicial body—had been coerced into giving its approval to the loan.

NUTT ATTACKED

Senators Couzens (Rep.), of Michigan, Borah (Rep.), of Idaho and Dill (Dem.), of Washington, planned to discuss the subject of railroad loans.

Couzens threatened to broaden the controversy by accusing James R. Nutt, of Cleveland, Republican national treasurer, with having engineered the loan to the Missouri Pacific. He intimated as much by saying the administration had become a government for the Van Sweringen interests by the Treasurer of the Republican National Committee.

Dill was incensed by reports that the corporation loaned money to railroads to pay off their interest charges on outstanding bonds.

He said he heard of one instance in which a railroad paid 4½ per cent interest on bonds, now selling at 21. He said this amounted to a rate of 20 per cent on the present value of the investment, with the money coming from the federal government.

'PRESSURE' INQUIRY

Borah served notice he would discuss the pressure used to obtain the Interstate Commerce Commission's approval of the Van Sweringen loan.

He said the entire commission was opposed to the loan, even though a majority of the commissioners approved it under pressure. He added that this situation was revealed in the minority report of Commissioner Eastman.

Meanwhile the senatorial criticism moved Secretary of the Treasury Mills to declare today that the corporation "welcomes an investigation" into its operations, adding:

Erk Opposes Pay Cut For U. S. Employes

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Representative Erk (Rep.), Pennsylvania, said in a letter yesterday he was "unqualifiedly opposed to any suggestion of federal wage cutting." He made his views known in reply to a communication from Guy C. Emery, of Lapinwall, saying:

"Any step toward the reduction of government employes at this time would be one of the instrumentalities toward prolonging the depression. Propaganda for salary cutting is a poisonous gas against which we must contend in our battle to restore confidence and get business back to normal condition."

Capone Aides Freed Of Firearm Charge

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Two henchmen of Al Capone convicted under a law aimed expressly at gunmen have been freed by the Appellate Court.

Sam Hunt and James Forsythe were convicted of violating a new statute forbidding possession of firearms on which serial numbers had been obliterated. They were sentenced to 90 days. The Appellate Court reversed the decision on the ground the state had not proved ownership of the pistol.

Pinchot Appearance In Senate Delayed

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Appearance of Gov. Gifford Pinchot of Pennsylvania before the Senate Public Lands Committee today was delayed for a week.

Pinchot was the first chief of the Forestry Bureau and advised the committee he wished to speak particularly of the forest questions involved in the administration-proposed transfer.

sented in any legislative body in the history of the world.

They ran amuck mentally, morally, financially, politically and patriotically.

THEY MADE THE Congress discreditable, their party ridiculous, and themselves contemptible.

They made the Republican party seem wise and good and sound and sane and loyal and altogether admirable.

Yes, General Grant WAS right.

Perhaps the Democrats WILL always do the wrong thing, and perhaps it is NOT safe to entrust the country to their hands.

Perhaps it is best to have only two party groups in the country,—the Republicans and the Bolsheviks — and two party emblems,—the wise old elephant, laughing inwardly, and the pink eyed, pin-headed, rattled and riotous JACKASS RABBIT.

WILLIAM RANDOLPH HEARST.

SURETIES PAY STATE FUNDS

HARRISBURG, March 29.—(AP.)—Gov. Pinchot yesterday put up to State Treasurer Edward Martin responsibility for his agreement with surety companies releasing them from responsibility on their bonds on state deposits in closed banks and announced that the state has called for payment from every surety company and bank involved.

Simultaneously, Attorney General William A. Schnader announced that bonding companies paid the state $475,028 yesterday. The money covered deposits in 16 of the 56 closed banks holding state funds.

The payments announced by Schnader were made, he said, in response to demands issued since the Martin agreement. All were forthcoming without protest, he added.

Schnader estimated the total amount of state money which would have been affected by the Martin agreement at about $2,500,000.

HILL MAN LOSES $300 IN HOLDUP

Joseph Tito, well known in Hill district political circles, was held up and robbed of $300 by bandits. They confronted him as he stepped out of his automobile and forced him into the front room of his home, 1817 Fifth avenue, early today, according to police.

Tito told police three or four men, all armed, surrounded him when he stepped from his machine. They marched the victim up the brick walk into his home where they took the cash. They warned Tito against an outcry and fled.

More Lights Urged As Business Aid

Better lighted homes as a means of combatting present business conditions were urged by J. F. O'Brien, advertising manager of the Westinghouse Lamp Company, New York, last night before the Electric League of Pittsburgh in the Chamber of Commerce auditorium.

Poor illumination was blamed by the speaker for many cases of defective vision.

American Gangsters Likened to Bedouins

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Baron Max Von Oppenheim, German diplomat and archeologist, says American gangsters are nothing new to him.

He has met their prototype, he said in an interview last night, in the Bedouins who also rob and kill because they have been taught to do so from childhood.

NEW FORD '8' TO MAKE BOW THURSDAY

Public Will Be Given First Glimpse of Car; Speed Set at 75 Miles Per Hour

DETROIT, March 29.—The Ford Motor Company announced yesterday that its new V-8 will be given a first public showing on Thursday of this week. A detailed description of the new car also was given but no mention was made of the price.

With a brake horsepower of 65, the V-8 is described as capable of 75 miles an hour and embodying a number of features, including a silent synchro-gear shift, downdraft carburetor, carburetor silencer, automatic spark control and a diaphragm pump drawing fuel from a tank in the rear.

CAR LARGER

The car is described as larger, with double-acting hydraulic shock absorbers, flexible transverse cantilever springs and a newly-designed rear spring mounted on perches at the rear of the axle housing to permit a lower frame and body weight. Rounded V-type radiator, slanting safety-glass windshield and rounded roof lines, with large ventilator in the top of the cowl are other details outlined. An oval instrument panel and inside sun visors are also part of the standard equipment.

The engine is described as of the 90-degree V type, having an S. A. E. rating of 30-horsepower and developing 65-brake horsepower at 3,500 r. p. m. The 65-pound crankshaft is of the 90-degree type with its four cranks at right angles to each other.

ALUMINUM COVER

Cylinder blocks and crank case are cast in one unit, and a cast aluminum cover forms the top of the engine. The distributor operates directly from the front end of the camshaft, eliminating use of interposed gears.

The announcement says that the 14 body types to be offered will be of streamline design. A new four-cylinder car of 50-horsepower also will be presented, capable of 65 miles an hour. The two cars, it was stated, will differ only in the engines. No details of the four-cylinder motor were given.

The only reference to price was contained in the statement that "while the V-8 will sell at low-price field figures, the four will sell for still less."

DRY POLL URGED BY N. J. SENATE

TRENTON, N. J., March 29.—(AP.)—After defeating a proposal to repeal the Hobart state prohibition enforcement act, the New Jersey Senate last night adopted two bills for referenda on dry laws.

Both referenda measures originated in the Senate and now go to the Assembly and the Governor. One provides for a statewide vote on repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment. The other provides a referenda by counties on retention of the Hobart act. The former was approved by a vote of 14 to 6, and the latter 14 to 5.

One Senator, Clifford R. Powell, Republican of Burlington, cited the dealings with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh with the underworld in attempting to secure the return of their kidnaped baby in pleading for adoption of the referenda.

The referenda bills were approved after brief debate, though lengthy argument preceded the rejection of the Hobart law repealer, which previously had been approved by the Assembly.

afternoon, preceding a program of meetings, visits and talks with Independent leaders of Allegheny County and Ralph E. Flinn, candidate for Auditor General, the Governor told interviewers he did not have time to comment on other subjects.

Pinchot's first act upon his arrival in Wilkinsburg from Harrisburg was to introduce Gen. Butler and his running mate Flinn. Followers of independent politics were surprised when the Governor turned to Gen. Butler and said:

"General, meet your running mate, Ralph Flinn."

Flinn and Butler had never met before.

Immediately following lunch the Governor's party was to visit Commissioner Charles C. McGovern, ill in the Sewickley Valley Hospital, where he is confined with a badly injured ankle.

Gov. Pinchot was to meet with a committee of the United Mine Workers of America, headed by Patrick Fagan, in behalf of Frank Pauletta, Coverdale miner, sentenced to hang for a murder committed 18 years ago.

A banquet in Hotel Schenley, a mass meeting in Carnegie Hall and addresses over WCAE, the Sun-Telegraph station, will complete the day's activities.

Off-Shore Gambling Attacked in House

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Conditions which Representative Free (Rep.), of California, described as "hell on earth" were attributed today before a House committee to floating gambling palaces anchored outside the three-mile limit.

His statement was made before the House Merchant Marine Committee, considering a bill to prevent "free taxi service" from the shore to these gambling palaces.

STRAWN BACKS U. S. ON LOANS

In an interview in Pittsburgh today Silas H. Strawn, internationally-known business man and president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, approved the Reconstruction Finance Corporation's policy of loans. He said:

"The members of this bi-partisan board are not the tools or slaves of Wall street or the bankers. The board was created to be liberal, to help the distressed railroads. What does it matter who gets the money if the debt and load are being lifted?"

Strawn reviewed the international situation, declaring it important that the government meet its budget and urged the readjustment of the income tax to reach the man with income of $1,000 in his talk at noon before the Pittsburgh Chamber of Commerce. His subject was "Obstacles to World Trade."

Business conditions in England were improved over those of last year, he said, and France was beginning to feel the pinch of depression. He found Germany on his recent European tour has become encouraged with the support shown the present government in the recent election.

Two obstacles facing the United States were cited. First, an indifference of individuals to their obligations to the nation and individuals, and, second, growing disposition to resist payment of taxes to the government after having forced indebtedness through demands for public improvements over a span of years. The interest and the indebtedness must be met, Strawn declared.

Tax Collections Continue to Drop

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Income tax receipts continued to decline on March 26 when they amounted to $683,090, as compared with $1,851,614 on the similar day a year ago.

For the month income tax collections have been $190,624,136, as compared with $329,116,991 for the same number of days of last March. For the fiscal year the collections have amounted to $848,745,498, against $1,500,548,016 last year.

REBEL TROOPS ADVANCING ON CHANGCHUN

Japanese Planes Sent Out In Effort to Halt Foes Of New Federated State

CHANGCHUN, Manchuria, March 29.—(AP.)—The regime of young Mr. Henry Pu-Yi, heir of the old Manchu emperors and newly-made dictator of Federated Manchuria, was threatened today by the march of 7,000 Chinese rebels, advancing upon Changchun.

Japanese forces here and at Mukden, the old capital, were called out to stop the rebel march.

The rebel troops, sworn to overthrow the new government of the federated state, which they have charged with usurping the power in Manchuria under tutelage of the Japanese, are led by Gen. Li Hai-Tsing. They apparently had defeated the regular troops of Gov. Hsi Hsia outside the town of Nungan, which was reported on the verge of surrender. The small Japanese detachments sent from here radioed for help, saying they had suffered heavy casualties in the fighting.

Sino-Japanese Parley Faces New Rupture

SHANGHAI, March 29.—(AP.)—A new rupture in the Sino-Japanese armistice negotiations was threatened tonight with the issuance of a statement from the Japanese consulate ascribing the repeated delays in the conference to "the fact that no Chinese delegate seems to be in a position or to be willing to assume responsibility."

The statement, described as coming from a "Japanese spokesman," accused Quo Tai-Chi, the Chinese representative, of attempting to terminate the negotiations "with the intention of charging Japan with responsibility for breaking up the conference."

OFFICER FACES TRIAL

SHANGHAI, March 29.—(INS.)—Gen. Feng Chi-Wu, chief of the intelligence bureau of the Chinese Nineteenth Route army, received notification from Nanking today that Col. Wang Ken would be turned over to the army for trial within the next few days.

Col. Wang, a graduate of West Point Military Academy, was taken into custody following his arrest and release by the Japanese army during the Shanghai fighting, at which time he was said to have let fall into Japanese hands important documents revealing Chinese military secrets.

Reports that Col. Wang had been executed for this, carried by news agencies other than International News Service, were denied by Chinese military authorities.

Cox Plans Jobless Party Convention August 17

Unless the demands of the jobless are met, 1,000,000 unemployed workers will convene in St. Louis August 17 to nominate candidates in the fall presidential election, Father James R. Cox, champion of the unemployed, declared last night.

Plans for the nationwide convention of the jobless were announced by the pastor of Old St. Patrick's, who will make the trip to St. Louis to head the vast army in the red truck which served him in his recent march to Washington.

The convention is being organized in all parts of the country. Units are being formed in groups of 50, headed by two lieutenants and a captain. Each group will make its own plans for attending the convention.

Funds lacking, the marchers will depend upon the donations of those interested in the cause. Father Cox said the convention was not aligned with any other political party.

Arrangements are being made to hold the convention in a large field near the city.

Transfusion Made to Save Life of Georgia Senator

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Dangerously weak from complications following a recent operation, Senator William J. Harris, of Georgia, underwent a blood transfusion last night and was under close watch of a physician.

The Senator had been believed on the road to recovery from the operation, and last week was taken home from a hospital. An intestinal disorder set in, however, and quickly rendered his condition serious.

There were hopes the transfusion, which strengthened him noticeably, would cause him to rally, but physicians did not expect any definite indication for some time.

The present attack was described as a recurrence of trouble suffered by Harris previous to the operation.

FORMER PROSECUTOR MAY AID PAULETTA ESCAPE GALLOWS

SEEKS REPORT ON COVERDALE MAN'S LIFE

Gov. Conley Announces He Will Grant 'Relief' in 18-Year-Old Murder Case

SISTERSVILLE, W. Va., March 29.—(AP.)—A. J. Findley, Prosecuting Attorney of Harrison County 18 years ago, who pressed murder charges against Frank Pauletta, may take some action to aid Pauletta to escape the gallows.

Pauletta was captured in a mine at Coverdale, Pa., late last year, returned to West Virginia and resentenced to be hanged for the murder of Frank Gilberti.

Findley has written to officials at Coverdale relative to Pauletta's character and conduct while a resident of that community.

If the replies are favorable, he said, he will recommend clemency to Gov. Conley.

The Governor indicated yesterday that he will grant "relief" to Pauletta, but did not say what form the "relief" will take.

W. Va. Governor Orders Pauletta Probe

CHARLESTON, W. Va., March 29.—(AP.)—Gov. Conley has announced that he intends to "grant relief" to Frank Pauletta, Coverdale (Pa.) miner, sentenced to be hanged April 22 for a murder committed 18 years ago, but that the extent of the "relief" has yet to be determined.

Gov. Conley said yesterday he had directed a thorough investigation into the Pauletta case and would announce his decision well in advance of the date set for the execution. Under the state law, he may commute the sentence to life imprisonment, grant a pardon or parole or allow a stay for further investigation of the case.

RELIEF UNDETERMINED

The Governor said:

"It is my intention to grant relief to Pauletta, but the extent of such relief has not yet been determined.

"I notice where an effort is being made to raise sums of money in the interest of Pauletta. Any money that may be raised should be turned over to the wife and children."

The Governor referred to efforts, especially in the mining sections of Pennsylvania, to solicit money to place Pauletta's case before him.

Pauletta was convicted in Harrison County in 1914 for the slaying of Frank Gilliberti in a quarrel at a dance hall. Before he was scheduled to be taken to the State prison at Moundsville he escaped from the jail at Clarksburg.

FOUND AT COVERDALE

A few months ago he was arrested at Coverdale, Pa., where he had been living under the name of Louis Ross and had reared a family.

Since the miner has been placed in "death row" at the State Penitentiary, letters have been sent in great numbers to Gov. Conley's office asking that he take action in the case.

The latest request for action came from Samuel Harden Church, president of Carnegie Institute in Pittsburgh, who asked the Governor to commute the sentence on the ground Pauletta had been living a "decent and upright life" since his escape.

A committee representing the United Mine Workers was to present a plea in Pauletta's behalf to Gov. Gifford Pinchot when he arrived in Pittsburgh today with Gen. Smedley Butler.

News that the West Virginia Governor had promised relief to her husband brought little comfort to Mrs. Pauletta, who since her husband's arrest has been depending upon the Allegheny County Emergency Association for livelihood.

She evidenced no faith in the news, and said she would not believe it until she saw alive again the husband she had accompanied in many flights across Pennsylvania's coal fields from West Virginia justice in the last 18 years.

Ministers of the Christian Church of Western Pennsylvania, meeting in Homestead yesterday, passed a resolution asking Gov. Conley to grant clemency to Pauletta.

5 HURT IN SLED CRASH MAY DIE

BISBEE, Ariz., March 29.—(AP.)—Thrown from a speeding sled while on an outing in the snow-covered Chiricahua Mountains and then lying unconscious for seven hours before a Douglas trapper found them, six young residents of Bisbee were under treatment today for injuries. Physicians said the condition of the five was critical.

The sled struck an obstruction on the mountain side, throwing the occupants through the air with terrific force.

Emma Warren, the most seriously injured, is suffering a fracture of the spine, brain concussion and other injuries. Four of her companions, Ernest Beyer, Grace Brownlie, Alma Estes, also suffered fractures.

Sim Chase, who escaped with minor injuries, was the first to recover consciousness. He attracted the attention of the passing trapper, Walter Spence, who summoned aid.

'SISTER' AIMEE, ACTOR DEBATE RUM ON AIR

Evangelist, Walter Huston Wait Result of Poll After Dry Dispute Before 6,000

International News Service.

LOS ANGELES, March 29.—The "radio battle of the century" hung in the balance today.

The subject was prohibition, and the debaters were Aimee Semple McPherson Hutton, golden tressed evangelist, and Walter Huston, character actor of the screen.

"Sister" Hutton and Huston tangled in Angelus Temple last night before a crowd of 6,000 that filled every nook and cranny, sat in the aisles and overflowed to the street outside. The speeches were broadcast, and Thursday the results of a poll conducted not only among the Angelus Temple audience, but with the radio listeners-in as well, will be announced.

The evangelist contended that prohibition was a success, and Huston asserted it was a failure.

RIVAL CLAIMS

Huston said prohibition had increased lawlessness, spread drinking among young children, and in addition was costing the government millions where once liquor provided a large source of revenue.

"Sister" Hutton countered by asserting that prohibition had curtailed lawlessness, virtually stopped drinking by children, and cost the government a comparatively minor sum for its enforcement.

Generous applause greeted each statement by each debater, leaving the issue in doubt.

Prohibition, said Aimee, has come to stay. She shouted:

"It was passed by a majority, and not by a minority, and if there is any doubt about it, let's take it to the polls and we'll show them again."

AGREE ON SALOON

On one subject both speakers agreed—the "corner saloon" must not return.

Huston compared murder and drunkenness statistics of London and Los Angeles, to show an increase for the worse since the advent of prohibition. Aimee retorted:

The tall actor said earnestly:

"The appalling events of the past few years have firmly convinced me that prohibition has spread from being a noble experiment to a national disaster."

The woman preacher pleaded:

"We've run the flag half way up the mast. Let's finish the job by running it all the way up."

FIRE DESTROYS BARBECUE

The flames broke out shortly before 5 a. m. and defied the combined efforts of Mt. Lebanon and Bower Hill fire departments. Fire Chief Frank Ringel, of Bower Hill, estimated the damage at $12,000.

JAP FLYING ACE KILLED AT N. Y.

NEW YORK, March 29.—(INS.)—Capt. Y. Nagoya, Japanese aviator, was killed today when his plane, being groomed for a trans-Pacific flight, crashed into the water near Floyd Bennett airport on Barren Island.

Capt. Nagoya had started on a test flight to New Castle, Del., where the factory of the plane's manufacturer is located.

After a run of about 900 feet the plane left the ground, bounced back several times and finally rose to a height of about 200 feet when suddenly it dived into the water.

SLEEP WALKER, 81, DIES IN FALL

John Stierheim, 81, of 6 Reel avenue, Ross Township, a lifelong resident of the North Side and North Hills district, is dead in his home, a victim of sleep-walking, the Coroner reported today.

The aged man rose from his bed early yesterday, made his way unobserved from his room to a rear porch and fell 16 feet to a concrete pavement. He was found by his son, Richard, with whom he lived, and died late yesterday afternoon in Allegheny General Hospital from a fractured skull.

GUARD PRELATE ON JOURNEY

SAN FRANCISCO, March 29.—(AP.)—Archbishop Francisco Orozco y Jiminez, object of an alleged kidnaping or assassination plot, left here last night for Los Angeles under private guard, police announced today.

The archbishop, an exile from his diocese at Guadalajara, Mexico, remained in seclusion at the Catholic Dominican priory prior to his departure. A police guard was placed about the priory Sunday night at the request of the Very Rev. Edward J. Whelan, president of San Francisco University.

Father Whelan told authorities a Spanish-speaking priest had been told of the alleged plot by a Mexican member of the church who said he overheard it in a grocery store.

Archbishop Orozco has been a central figure in difficulties between the church and the Mexican government for several years. He arrived in San Francisco a week ago after being ordered to leave Mexico for good.

Aileen Pringle Again Arrested as Speeder

LOS ANGELES, Cal., March 29.—(AP.)—Aileen Pringle, screen star, who was fined $10 last week for speeding in her automobile, was tagged again yesterday on a similar charge. She was ordered to appear in Traffic Court Friday.

Duncan Renaldo, film actor, surrendered in Traffic Court today to a warrant issued at Merced, where he was fined $30 January 25 for speeding. He paid only $15 of the penalty and, the warrant charged, failed to appear later with the balance.

LEADERS URGE IRISH TO DIE FOR LIBERTY

By LINTON WELLS
International News Service.

DUBLIN, March 29.—The people of the Irish Free State were called upon today to give up their lives if necessary rather than surrender to Great Britain in the coming battle over abolition of the oath of allegiance to the British crown.

Republican leaders carried their campaign to the people while the Free State council was in session, considering President Eamon De Valera's reply to London's note of warning.

URGED TO FIGHT

Brian O'Higgins, president of the Sinn Fein organization, urged the people to "continue your hard fight for freedom" in a speech at Limerick. He said:

"Follow the example of your comrades who never compromised and who died rather than accept the status of British citizens under a treaty of surrender."

Speaking at Athlone, M. J. Kennedy, Fianna Fail deputy, voiced similar sentiments. He said:

"We are going to win the fight, because there is no going back to the begging alternative of surrender which was the headline of the past 10 years."

The executive council is facing some difficulty over the form of reply to Great Britain, although it is certain the reply will reiterate De Valera's stand that abolition of the oath of allegiance and retention of the land annuities are domestic questions to be settled by the Irish people alone.

'NOT FRIGHTENED'

De Valera told International News Service:

"Great Britain cannot frighten us. The Irish people have learned in the past 10 years the fallacy of surrendering their rights when threatened.

"Our paramount consideration is to secure internal peace and we intend to have it by living up to the mandate given us in the last election."

As the hour approaches for delivery of the Free State government's reply to Great Britain, the Irish press is carrying flaming denunciations of "British Imperialism" and assuring De Valera of the people's "whole-hearted support" in the battle to free Ireland of British domination.

Mass meetings are being held throughout the country every day.

Singer's Husband Jailed for Alimony

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Dr. Maurice E. Mesirow, widely-known eye specialist and husband of Mme. Irene Pavloska, opera singer, today was in the county jail for failure to pay alimony to his first wife.

The specialist was held on a contempt of court order issued by Judge Daniel P. Trude. His former wife, now said to be ill in California, charged several months ago he was $1,115 in arrears in alimony payments and her lawyer said the bill had since grown by $1,000.

Huge New Factory Opened in Russia

MOSCOW, March 29.—(INS.)—A gigantic ball-bearing factory, with a capacity of 24,000,000 bearings a year, was opened ceremoniously here today.

Speakers hailed the enterprise as proof of the wisdom of the policy of Premier Josef Stalin, who maintains that Russia should be freed of the necessity of accepting many of its present imports.

Threatened

MRS. BETTY H. DAVIDSON

Mrs. Davidson, Washington society figure, granddaughter of the late Mark Hanna, threatened with harm to her young daughter, Daisy, now aged 6, if she doesn't pay $2,000. The threat came twice by telephone.

KIDNAP THREAT REPEATED

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(Universal.)—Mrs. Betty Hanna Davidson, granddaughter of the late Mark Hanna, notified police yesterday she had received a second telephone call threatening her 6-year-old daughter, Daisy.

The latest target of would-be extortionists, Mrs. Davidson on Saturday afternoon was directed to hand over $2,000 to save her child from kidnaping. The call yesterday informed her she would "get another" communication later." Police have placed a special guard about the Davidson home.

Meanwhile investigation into the cases of Mrs. Alice Roosevelt Longworth and Sir Willmott Lewis was at a standstill pending a report from the Bureau of Standards.

Both Mrs. Longworth and Sir Willmott received letters demanding $1,500 and intimating that little Paulina Longworth and Willmott, Jr., would be kidnaped as a penalty for refusal to pay.

The Bureau of Standards is conducting a scientific inquiry to determine if the two letters came from the same person.

THAT WHICH our heroic "devil dog" Marines and all the power of our government could not do, appears to have been done by a creature so small you could not see it with the naked eye.

Sandino, leader of Nicaragua's insurgent band, is laid up with a violent attack of malaria, under a doctor's care, unable to ride or shoot. And he is not the first victim of the tiny germs that Anopheles mosquitoes implant in your blood.

SOME HISTORIANS believe that malaria, distributed by mosquitoes from the marshes around Rome, wiped out Roman power of resistance, mazing it easy for a barbarian from the North, in furs, to sit on the throne of the Caesars.

Quinine, one of the few absolute specifics known to medicine, conquers malaria, but for a long time Protestant Britain would not permit the use of quinine because it had been discovered by Catholics in South America and named for a Catholic saint.

Such is the power of religious prejudice.

THE "RED STAR," which represents Russia's army, predicts a war soon, between this country and Japan. It is to "grow out" of the Manchurian troubles between Japan and China.

Russia knows as little about this country as we do about Russia, and talks about this country as foolishly as we do of Russia, which is saying a great deal.

Russia's prediction of war for us is encouraging, because it is sure to be unfounded.

3 IN FAMILY DIE READING BIBLE IN ODD PACT

Missionary, Wife and Son Hire Garage for Suicide; Note Bares Triple Tragedy

International News Service.

CHICAGO, March 29.—Side by side in an undertaking parlor today lay the bodies of Horace Coleman, Sr., a Quaker missionary, his wife and their 21-year-old son, all victims of a strange suicide pact.

And the mysterious motives which prompted the elderly minister and his little family to inhale poisonous carbon monoxide fumes as they sat in their automobile, while reading from a Bible, eluded puzzled authorities.

Smiles of faith and calm joy were written on the faces of the man, woman and youth when their bodies were discovered last night in a private garage which served as their self-chosen death chamber.

NOTE BRINGS DISCOVERY

Directed to the garage by a letter written by the Quaker leader just before the triple suicide was enacted, Dr. Ellis David Walker, a friend, and Charles F. Bilger, an undertaker, rushed to the scene, battered through the locked doors of the fume-filled building and discovered the bodies.

In death as throughout life, the little family was united. Upright they sat in the rear seat of their automobile, the wife and mother in the center, the husband and son on each side of her. On Mrs. Coleman's lap was an open Bible. Apparently she had been reading aloud to her loved ones words of courage and consolation as the deadly fumes slowly drew life from their bodies.

MOTIVE IN DOUBT

In their search for a motive in the tragedy police found no assistance in the story told by Dr. Walker about the past life of the Quaker family. Walker said:

"I cannot guess why they did it. The last time I saw them was Sunday, when they all called on me. We had a pleasant, cheerful talk. There was neither word nor look to suggest anything like this."

The Coleman family, Dr. Walker said, lived for more than 20 years in Tokio, where the father was a missionary. Recently young Horace Coleman, Jr., has been attending the University of Chicago. During the last four years the family home has been at Bloomingdale, Ind., but Coleman travelled considerably on lecture tours.

'PECULIAR IDEAS'

Early last evening Dr. Walker received Coleman's letter that sent him scurrying to the garage, which apparently had been rented solely for the suicide purpose. The letter said:

"Dear Doctor: We are sorry to give you a disagreeable piece of work, but we believe you will be willing to do this for us.

"You will find us in our car in the private garage of Miss Loretta Kennedy at 6610 Woodlawn avenue. You will find instructions on an envelope pinned on one of us for yourself and the undertaker."

After requesting the doctor to telephone his sister-in-law, Mrs. L. A. Bullis, Pine Village, Ind., Coleman's letter said:

"You and Mrs. Walker know that this way accords with our peculiar ideas in cases where conditions warrant it."

McCloskey Punishes Boys With Work, Not Jail

JOHNSTOWN, Pa., March 29.—(AP.)—Juvenile delinquents know now what Mayor McCloskey meant when he said recently:

"Boys under 16 will not be incarcerated in the city jail."

He meant something two of them protested today is "worse than jail."

Juveniles went on the rampage recently with a series of store thefts. They were arrested, but McCloskey refused to permit their incarceration.

One of the young offenders, however, is busy cleaning the cellar of a store he robbed; another has to sweep out nights after the store closes. The Mayor explained:

"They'll all serve time at hard work with no pay. I did not mean they would not be punished."

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—The marriage of George Martin Lott, Davis Cup tennis star, and Abigail Allen, with whom he eloped to Elkton, Md., in October, 1930, has ended in divorce. Grounds for the divorce, granted Mrs. Lott yesterday, were not revealed.

The marriage followed a whirlwind courtship which began when the couple met at the home of Fitz Eugene Dixon, then captain of the Davis Cup team, in Elkins Park, Pa., where members of the team were being entertained.

STAND OF SMITH PUZZLING TO ROOSEVELT

Unable to Understand Why Ex-Governor Withholds His Support, Son Declares

BOSTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt is puzzled by the failure of Alfred E. Smith to support his presidential campaign, according to James Roosevelt, son of the New York Governor.

Speaking at a series of Roosevelt rallies last night, the youngest Roosevelt reviewed the friendship existing for many years between his father and Smith, and said:

"Neither father nor his close friends can understand at this time the failure of Gov. Smith to support his candidacy."

Roosevelt summarized the political careers of his father and former Gov. Smith, and said his father paved the way for Smith's first election as Governor of New York by recommending him for the nomination after declining it himself. Gov. Roosevelt also prevailed upon President Wilson to issue a statement indorsing the Smith candidacy, his son said.

James Roosevelt took up the burden for his father when Mayor Curley, director of the Massachusetts campaign for Roosevelt, was prevented by illness from attending the rallies.

IOWA IN DISPUTE

DAVENPORT, Ia., March 29.—(AP.)—The State Democratic Convention, opens today with State Chairman R. F. Mitchell of Fort Dodge predicting victory for Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York.

Meantime the forces of Gov. William H. Murray, of Oklahoma, who admittedly do not want the Iowa delegation instructed, and have predicted the state convention would not take issue between Roosevelt and Murray, opened a last minute offensive.

CONVENE IN MAINE

PORTLAND, Me., March 29.—Leaders are in agreement that an uninstructed delegation to the national convention will result from the two-day convention starting today.

The majority of the national delegation of 12 members was expected to be favorable to the candidacy of Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, of New York, for the presidential nomination.

Senator Barkley Urged As Keynote Speaker

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—Supporters of Gov. Roosevelt, of New York, for the Democratic presidential nomination have agreed to back Senator Barkley, of Kentucky, for temporary chairman and keynoter at the party convention in June.

Barkley recently asked those in Kentucky who were urging him as a favorite son candidate to support Roosevelt.

Selection of a keynoter for the convention will be considered in Chicago Monday by the committee on arrangements of the National Committee.

Jouett Shouse, chairman of the Democratic National Executive Committee, has been proposed for keynoter by those opposing the Roosevelt nomination.

Those suggesting Barkley for keynoter believe he would meet with little opposition from the "Stop Roosevelt" forces because he seconded the nomination of Al Smith at Houston and was Smith's campaign manager in Kentucky in 1928.

HE'S LIVING IN OVEN!

JACK DOTY, 27 . . . HE'S LIVED IN 103 DEGREES FOR A YEAR

QUITS 'FURNACE' FOR NEW SKIN

MEMPHIS, Tenn., March 29.—(AP.)—Game Jack Doty, who lived in an electric oven at a temperature of 103 degrees for 332 days and upset predictions of doctors that he couldn't survive burns suffered in a motorcar accident, has gone to the hospital to get some new skin.

He was injured early last May. His back was seared to the bone and his right leg parched. Physicians were almost sure he could not live, but placed him in the oven, heated by a battery of electric lights, as a last resort. Only his head and shoulders were free.

The treatment of lights and heat has drawn the impurities from his burns and aided the growth of new underskin so grafting can be started. He was moved from his home to the hospital yesterday in heated blankets. He will be there four or five weeks while the new skin covers his burns.

During his oven sojourn, Doty played bridge with his wife and friends, just talked or watched 2-year-old Jack, Jr., for amusement. He is cheerful and confident of recovery.

DUAL SLAYING SUSPECT TAKEN

ST. IGNACE, Mich., March 29.—(AP.)—Leonard Minor, 25, sought for the slaying of a man and a girl Sunday night near Rexton, was arrested last night when officers found him asleep in a barn two miles east of Gould City.

He had the rifle with which officers said he shot Harold Martindale, 25, and Lennie Selby, 14, and also was armed with a pistol, but was overpowered before he awakened. Deputy Sheriff George Holt and Charles Marshall, Gould City village marshal, made the arrest.

Minor had fled for 22 miles through swamps and cut-over timber land ahead of a posse headed by Sheriff William M. McCauley.

Martindale, a boyhood chum of Minor, and Miss Selby were shot from a window as they sat before an organ in the home of Jeff Davis, near Rexton. The girl was killed instantly, but Martindale named Minor as the slayer before he died. Martindale and Minor had quarreled over the girl.

SEWICKLEY MAN IN FIRE QUIZ

Natale Trunzo, 44, whose home in Nevin street, Sewickley, was destroyed by an explosion and fire early Sunday, was lodged in the county jail today on a fire marshal's detainer. The man was arrested late yesterday when he returned to Sewickley from Youngstown, O., by Police Chief H. M. Rose, of Sewickley, who turned him over to Fire Marshal Thomas Pfarr.

Chief Rose today declared that he now is convinced there is no connection between the fire which destroyed Trunzo's home and the murder of John Sauro, 38, Sewickley war veteran. Sauro, a neighbor of Trunzo's, was slain about the same time the dwelling was destroyed. Sauro's body was found on an Aleppo Township dump.

The lodging of Trunzo in the county jail is the result. Pfarr says, of finding gasoline soaked mattresses in the bedrooms of the home. Trunzo was with his family in Youngstown at the time of the explosion, police say.

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—Paul Connelly, Jr., well known horse breeder and dealer is in a hospital today with a fractured skull after being kicked by a horse. DETROIT, March 29.—(AP.)—Explosion of a home-made heater in the garage-home of Oliver Stewart, 45, in Lincoln Park early today caused his death and that of his wife and their two children. The blast wrecked the interior of the small structure, but left its walls standing.

What Difference does a tooth or two make?

Ask the man who has just lost a few

If you have ever lost a tooth in the front of your mouth, you know how precious all your natural teeth are. The days with the toothless gap . . . the silly, lisping sound of your own voice . . . the strange embarrassment that made you keep your hand over your mouth. You'll never want to go through it again.

Start now to protect your teeth. Protect them against pyorrhea—the thief of half the adult teeth which are lost. Pyorrhea starts at the gum line and works downward towards the tooth sockets. It may be working in your mouth five or ten years before you know it, before it takes a single tooth. But, sooner or later, beware . . .

Give the dentist a chance to prevent. It's much better than repairing. Visit him twice a year and make a point of it. That is prevention—and sensible prevention too. Then there is the question of home treatment and care. There is no use in making believe that white, shining, "clean" teeth are either safe or sound. Nobody believes that any more. The gums must be considered as well. Forhan's Toothpaste is the double-duty toothpaste that does both halves of the job. Originated by Dr. R. J. Forhan, for 26 years a pyorrhea specialist. Save pain, expense and humiliation. Start the whole family today with the big brown tube of Forhan's. All druggists.

Subway, Wharf Projects Urged to Aid Idle

8—Construction of sewer extensions and paving urgently needed at an estimated cost of $1,000,000.

LANG CUTS PAY

To extend the value of such projects as unemployment relief measures Director Lang has ordered wages of common laborers cut from $4.40 to $4 per day. He said:

"I am doing this only to make the emergency appropriations go further. I consider $4 per day a living wage."

The subway project, which moved toward the construction stage as public officials and civic leaders saw in it a real solution of part of the city's unemployment problem, remained the major project.

The fact that the provisions of the legislation for financing the subway adapt it to the present situation by providing employment for hundreds without immediate reflection in taxes was pointed out by L. W. Montevecchio, real estate man and member of the Transit Commission.

SUBWAY ADVANTAGES

He said:

"Subway construction is of such a nature that the money put into it must largely be paid out immediately in wages.

"Next to labor come the items of heavy materials. The bulk of these consists of steel, cement and concrete aggregates. All of these heavy materials would originate in the Pittsburgh area; the production of these would in turn call for the employment of hundreds of men.

"Another matter of considerable interest and importance is the fact that no bonds sold by the city in the near future in order to start subway construction would require any interest for sinking fund payments to be made from city revenue for at least three years.

"Section 18 of Article 9 of the state constitution provides that in the case of subways, interest and sinking fund charges can be paid from the bond issue for one year after such subway is completed and in operation. The subway could not be completed in less than two years from the present time. Hence a period of at least three years without any debt charges against city revenue which means no increase in tax millage. And who is there so pessimistic as to think that prosperity will not have returned long before three years hence?"

PLAN FAVORED

Three additional members of City Council today announced they favored new subway and wharf improvement plan offered by Snodgrass. They are Councilman William J. Soost, Michael J. Muldowney and Harry A. Little.

President John S. Herron, of Council, favors the plan, while Finance Committee Chairman W. Y. English said he was "keeping an open mind" until he studied the proposition thoroughly. Snodgrass' plan will be discussed in councilmanic committee today.

Discussing the proposition, Soost said:

"I am in favor of anything that will tend to relieve the unemployment situation. There is only one thing about this matter, though, and that is the burden the taxpayers are going to have to assume in the years to come. I intend making a thorough study of the proposition. I may have something more definite to say later."

DELAY FEARED

Muldowney said:

"The plan looks pretty good to me. I doubt whether immediate work could be started though. As I understand it, a number of surveys would have to be made. These would take several months. The City Transit Commission should make a through study and then report to Council what it thinks of the proposal."

Little declared:

"After a preliminary study of Mr. Snodgrass' plan I can say that I am impressed with it. Something will have to be done soon to bring order out of chaos for the unemployed here. This plan appears to solve the problem as well as giving Pittsburgh something to be proud of in years to come."

Councilman Clifford B. Connelley said he had not had sufficient time to make a study of the subway plan and would have no opinion to offer until he did so.

WHARF PROJECT PUSHED

Impetus is expected to be given plans for the improvement of wharves, modern barge lines and packet boat terminals and river regulation by storage reservoirs at the meeting tomorrow afternoon in the Chamber of Commerce of property owners and business interests.

The meeting to be held under the auspices of the Flood Commission, is sponsored by its executive committee consisting of George S. Davison, president; A. H. Burchfield, vice president; Julian Kennedy, Morris Knowles, M. R. Scharff, E. K. Morse, Wilmer M. Jacoby and George H. Lehman. Commenting on the subject of the conference, President Davison said:

"At this time when there is so much discussion of the use of public funds to meet the existing emergency, it is our opinion that the plans of the Flood Commission should be strongly emphasized to those who will have charge of such expenditures, if authorized. It seems to us that it would be much more sensible to employ emergency relief bond funds in the promotion of carefully planned public works, which will be done some day anyway, rather than on projects of minor importance just for the sake of giving employment.

PLANS READY

"In view of the fact that there is much agitation for public bond issues by the city, county, state and nation, the Flood Commission intends to be ready in the event that funds are made available for construction work on a big scale. The City Department of Public Works, through its engineering division, has, at the request of the Flood Commission, developed a plan for the improvement of the wharves, including modern terminal facilities, which would require little time and little effort to bring up to date as a completed project ready for submission to bidders, should the funds be provided and the determination aroused to proceed. The cost of this work could be borne through city or county bond issue funds or by both, under existing laws.

U. S. INVESTIGATION

"The U. S. engineers have thoroughly investigated the reservoir plans of the Flood Commission and have completed a new survey thereof, which, we are informed, is more favorable to the project than any other report yet made available. This report in tentative form is in the office of the District Engineer at Pittsburgh awaiting the inspection or comment of the Flood Commission in advance of its final approval by the Chief of Engineers and transmission to Congress. Works of this kind could be built by the state or the nation, or jointly by both.

"The wisdom of spending public funds, if provided for relief purposes, for sound projects like wharf improvement was emphasized at a recent hearing by City Council on the proposal to submit $5,000,000 in bond issues to the voters of Pittsburgh at the April 26 primaries. Senator James J. Coyne, addressing Council, urged the improvement of the wharves, and the Building Owners and Managers Association in a written communication did the same thing."

Thief Sentenced To Read Hugo's Books in Jail

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP)—Thomas Delmato will probably endeavor to set a new record for the quick reading and assimilation of five of Victor Hugo's tomes.

Judge John A. Sbarbaro asked Delmato, when he was brought into court on a larceny charge:

"Did you ever read any of Victor Hugo's works?"

"Never heard of him."

"Then how did it happen that, when you were arrested, you had five volumes of Victor Hugo under your arm? I will sentence you to read all five volumes and I will put you in the lockup until you've finished."

LIQUOR SELLING AT POOL DENIED

Charges by Attorney Henry Oliver Evans that bootlegging had been done at the Henry W. Oliver swimming pool in recent years were denied by Supt. W. C. Batchelor, of the City Bureau of Recreation.

Evans said lax supervision of activities at the pool was the reason the Oliver estate had refused to support the project in recent years. In his report to Council and Public Works Director Edward G. Lang, Batchelor wrote:

"I know of no evidence, or even rumors of anything in the nature of bootlegging having been committed at this pool in the seven years that I have been superintendent. I did hear accusation of such having occurred previous to 1925, but have no knowledge of these accusations ever having been proved.

"The only criticism, in my opinion, that could be charged against the employes of the pool is that certain of them have been delinquent in the discharge of their duties on various occasions, or have occasionally been delinquent in reporting for duty."

3 MEN FREED ON PAROLES

With an alternative sentence of 10 to 20 years in Western Penitentiary if any of them violate their paroles, Visiting Judge Charles M. He emphasized that if any of the trio should be arrested and convicted of any wrongdoing, he would have to serve out the long alternative sentence.

The men were Brownie Sharp, 31, of 4108 Foster street; his brother, Edward Sharp, 23, of 219 Thirty-sixth street, and John Zukowsky, 23, of 3603 Butler street. They were found guilty of attempting to hold up George H. Russell, janitor of the Central Arms Apartment, Mt. Lebanon, December 21.

Dignity and the Depression Were Both Forgotten At the 'Scandals'

By GEORGE SEIBEL

Which ought to get first mention—Ray Bolger's anatomical dancing, Everett Marshall's volcanic voice, or the button-bursting clownishness of Willie Howard? They are the three things that stand out in the latest edition—the eleventh—of George White's "Scandals," but this latest edition also stands out for uniform excellence in nearly every part. There isn't a minute wasted—there isn't a mediocre person or team in that cast. You may have your doubts about whether the Gale Quadruplets are really quadruplets, but there is no doubt that they are tornadoes of terpsichorean skill. You may not like crooning nightingales, but there is no question that Rudy Vallee is the golden eagle of the covey. You may even prefer Shaw or O'Neill to the little interludes in which the Howard Boys are it—but if you don't laugh at them, you must be suffering from ossification of the occiput.

Mr. Seibel

By this time the observant reader will have surmised that the acerbous critic liked the "Scandals" unveiled at the Alvin Theater last night. He did. He laughed in a very undignified fashion. He hopes his Sunday school superintendent did not see him laughing at some of those things. But at the same time there was only one of the sketches he would eliminate—that one being "The Duel," which is neither very funny nor very refined. Perhaps it is the very topnotchiness of the others that makes this one seem feeble and offensive.

The one entitled "Pay the Two Dollars" is uproarious because it's so true, and the one in which the Pedestrian applies for a license, passes all the tests, gets his license plate and then is run over by a kiddy-car, is so true that it's uproarious.

WILLIE IS ELECTED

If the critic after Willie Howard the nomination as the funniest comedian who has visited Pittsburgh this season, Willie would be unanimously elected by the audience. Willie is so funny that he makes Eugene seem less funny than he really is. Eugene will probably find comfort in the thought that in every presidential election there is also a vice president—at any rate, so they say.

And if these two fellows were not so very funny, Ray Bolger could qualify as the comedian. That "Adam and Eve" sketch he acts with Barbara Blair, she munching apples while he brandishes his cave-man's club and a serpent of beautiful girls coiled around a primeval tree, is just as funny as the Howard comedies. Of course it is Bolger's dancing that is the sensational feature of the show—in fact, he almost stopped the show in one place. This angular fellow, who looks as if Mother Nature had made him out of animated toothpicks, must have electricity in his veins as his vital fluid.

Barbara Blair was particularly amusing in the song "Back from Hollywood," and Joan Abbott was able to convince the audience that "Life is Just a Bowl of Cherries" because she seemed to be convinced of it herself.

HAD NO SOFT SPOTS

In fact, one of the noteworthy qualities of this revue is that it had no soft spots. Even the "feeders" who so often are merely lay figures, had quality. There was Ethel Barrymore Colt, daughter of the Barrymore-Drew clan—who really has only two scenes with the Howard Boys, but plays them with vim and color in a way that shows she can deliver the goods. Helen Gordon, Betty Allen and the Loomis Sisters are others who deserve more opportunities—but every minute of the show is filled with something good.

Perhaps the best thing of all is the singing of Everett Marshall. He has a song, "That's Why Darkies Were Born," a sort of "Green Pastures" melody picture that carried the audience off its feet, not only by the art of the tableaux but above all by the resonance and range of his voice. At the other end of the vocal scale is Rudy Vallee, who flutes his rich ripe tenor notes with never a flaw, either in the voice or the sentiment. Many who came to kick remained to encore. His imitation of Maurice Chevalier showed him also a good mimic.

There are bevies of beautiful girls, really beautiful, and a dozen colorful settings in Urban's best style, not overdone and certainly the take-off on the radio, "The Fleischmann Hour," played by Bolger, Vallee and Willie Howard, is the funniest thing seen and heard here this season. The Alvin ushers are still sweeping up the buttons in the aisles.

Cuban?

Spanish Dancer Here Saturday Night

When Escudero appears with his ensemble in the Nixon Theater on Saturday evening, he will be the first dancer to present the genuine Flamenco style of Spanish dancing in this city, it is said. Escudero came to America several months ago and made his debut in New York, where he has danced 14 times to the acclaim of packed houses. His dances are rugged and one of his devices for rhythmic effects is the clicking of his fingernails, which can be plainly heard in any part of the theater. Escudero will be accompanied by Senoritas Carmita and Carmela, both from Madrid.

Hal Kemp Orchestra For William Penn

Hal Kemp and his orchestra, a Southern aggregation, will open in the Pirate Hall, William Penn Hotel, Saturday night. Kemp organized his orchestra at the University of North Carolina a few years ago. The orchestra comes to the William Penn after a series of engagements in New York, Paris and London night clubs.

BITS OF LIFE

All in a Day

By Mark Hellinger

Counterfeit

MY SECRETARY, Mr. James Burbridge, had just returned from my bank. That's rather a silly sentence because, in the first place, I don't need a secretary—and, in the second place, I certainly don't need a bank. I keep them both only because the situation permits me to enjoy myself. My secretary allows me to overdraw my account, and the bank calls to find out what's the matter with my secretary. I then send my secretary over to find out what's the matter with the bank. It's all very intriguing.

At any rate, I was just casting about for an idea for a column when Mr. Burbridge raced into my office. That, in itself, was a highly unusual occurrence—for Mr. Burbridge is more of a creeper than a racer. An extremely quiet man, he provides the perfect balance for a nervous monkey such as I.

"Big doings at the bank, Mark," he cried. My secretary always calls me Mark and I call him Mr. Burbridge.

"What happened?" I queried. "Don't tell me they've gone and made Winchell the treasurer?"

"No," returned Mr. Burbridge. "Not yet. But big doings just the same. Seems as though the city is flooded with counterfeit $10 bills. The clerk told me it's the finest imitation they've ever handled."

I sighed and turned back to the typewriter.

"I thought it was something important," I said. "I've never seen you move so fast and you'd better grab a chair before you collapse."

"What's so exciting about a fake $10 bill? We never get our hands on enough of them to cause us any bother. If you were talking about quarters, then you'd have the right to be nervous."

Mr. Burbridge crawled into his chair.

"It's not that, Mark," he murmured. "It's not the amount of money that's involved; it's the thought of the counterfeit money that gets me. There's something about a counterfeiting operation that gives me more of a kick than anything else. Why don't you do a story along those lines?"

"All right," I said. "I'll try it. But I'm telling you right now that it will never be any good. Let's see."

"Suppose we do call the man Mr. Smith. We'll say that he was a man with a peculiar obsession in life. From the time that he first entered high school he dreamed of the day that he would invent the perfect counterfeiting machine. That's not bad for a beginning.

"As he grew older the obsession grew with him. He went to college and took every course that could possibly help him in the struggle to attain his goal. We'll say that his parents were dead, and that he had a small income from the estate every month. Just enough, that is, to enable him to live and carry on in his work.

"When he left college he began to experiment. His every move, his every dream had to do with his obsession. Some day he was going to perfect a machine in which the plates were so fine that he could manufacture money by the millions—and nobody would be able to detect the counterfeit from the orginal.

"So we carry him along for some 20 years. No marriages. No loves. No pleasures. Not for this very strange Mr. Smith. His work was his everything, and one afternoon as he stood in his laboratory he shrieked with joy. He had done it! The bill he held in his hand was positively genuine. There wasn't an expert in the world who could note any difference. And he had made it with his own hands!

"Now wait a minute. At this point we'll have to look around for an ending. Suppose we say that Mr. Smith was not a crook at heart. By no means. His goal had been the perfecting of the counterfeiting machine. He had reached his goal. Now what to do?

"After careful deliberation he approached one of the biggest men in the underworld. We must bring in the underworld, Mr. Burbridge, or it wouldn't be a Broadway column. At any rate, Mr. Smith had a long talk with this man and when the latter gentleman was convinced he wasn't talking to a nut he consented to a demonstration of the machine.

"A few hours later the racketeer was convinced. He told Mr. Smith he would enter a partnership with him, and his organization would unload the money on the nation. But Mr. Smith refused.

"'Nothing doing,' he cried. 'I never had such a course in mind. I want no part in the actual distribution. There is my machine. You leave and return with $50,000 in cash—and you can take the entire thing with you. I wash my hands of everything connected with it once it leaves this house.'

"The racketeer shrugged his shoulders. If Mr. Smith was that foolish, why that was up to him. He left the house and went downtown. In less than an hour, he was back with $50,000 in cash. He handed the money to Mr. Smith. The two men shook hands. The machine was carried away and the deal was over.

"Mr. Smith went to his bank to deposit the money. He reached the teller's cage. And a minute later, he found himself in terrible trouble.

"What do you think had happened, Mr. Burbridge? The racketeer had paid him off in counterfeit money! . . .

* * *

"That's fine," cried Mr. Burbridge. "It's got a kick, and everything."

I shook my head.

Mexico Now Inspires Movies

HOLLYWOOD, March 29.

Movie moguls have a sharp eye on the recent trend to glorify Mexican art and the simple life as led in the southern republic.

One studio, Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer, already is preparing to give the movement screen expression. Laurence Stallings, it develops, employed his four weeks in Hollywood to write an original story called "Mexico." The synopsis is completed and is in the hands of Irving Thalberg.

Ramon Novarro

As described to me, the story deals with a young man of mixed Spanish and English blood, who revolts against the busy metropolitan life of the United States and goes to Mexico to "return to the earth."

The role immediately suggest Ramon Novarro, but this enters the realm of speculation.

Stallings, I needn't remind you, co-authored "What Price Glory" and wrote the original one-page synopsis of "The Big Parade." During his journalistic career, he also spent a considerable time in Mexico, so he may be looked to for an authentic story.

His Hollywood stay over, the author now is en route to the country retreat where he carries on his literary labors in the East.

ABOUT KAY JOHNSON

Kay Johnson, a fine actress whom some of us feel has never been given sufficient recognition on the screen, will go to Columbia to play opposite Walter Huston in "Faith."

Kay Johnson

This is her first film job in some time, but she made an excellent impression in Dick Bennett's recent production "Cyrano de Bergerac."

'Sinners in the Sun' Cast Completed

The cast of "Sinners in the Sun," motion picture version of Mildred Cram's story, "The Beachcomber," has been completed. It includes: Chester Morris, Carole Lombard, Alison Skipworth, Reginald Barlow, Adrienne Ames, Walter Byron, Cary Grant, Russ Clark, Frances Moffett, Kent Taylor, Luke Cosgrove, Pierre De Ramey, Zita Moulton, Ida Lewis and Veda Buckland. David Burton directs.

Sister Asks Search For Home Inmate

Mrs. John Trappen, of Castle Shannon, has asked the Missing Persons Bureau of Pittsburgh to aid her in finding her brother, George A. Beam, 62, missing since he left the county home at Woodville, February 9. Beam, his sister said, had been staying at the home 18 years.

Academy Bill Has 'Belles'

"Easter Belles," heralded as a combination burlesque, musical comedy and vaudeville show in two acts and 38 scenes, is current in the Academy. It is headed by Eddie Kaplan and Harry "Hello Jake" Fields, comedians. Among the sketches are "Streets of Venice," headed by Jayes La Rue, singer, and "Snowbound," with Fields and Mildred Cozierre, principals. Comedy scenes include "Spirits of '76" and "Coo-Coo," featuring the entire company. Ina Thomas, singer and dancer, is the feminine star. Other principals are Darlin' Lucky, Nina Vale, Ann Norton, Edythe Warren, Kathleen Warren, Naomi Berger, Johnny Gilmore, Eddie Innes, Red Berger, Johnny Stein and Mervine Harmon. The "Four Merrymakers," a mixed quartet, heads the vaudeville bill.

Alison Skipworth Gets New Film Role

Alison Skipworth, Richard Bennett and George Barbier will be united in a dramatic human interest story tentatively titled "The Countess of Auburn." Frances Dee, 1931 Wampas starlet, will supply juvenile interest. The story is an original for the screen by Malcolm Stuart Boylan and Harvey Harris Gates, co-authors of "Hell Divers." The screen play is a new approach to the mother-love theme laid against a small town background.

PLAYS AND PLAYERS -:- By WILLIAM J. LEWIS

The box-office sale of seats for the engagement next week of Katharine Cornell in the Alvin is going on two days in advance of the usual day for selling coming attractions to the public Thursday is the customary day, but, through the courtesy of George White, whose "Scandals" is the current attraction, "The Barretts of Wimpole Street" is allowed to come before prospective customers earlier. Despite large advance mail orders for seats, indicating a complete sell-out, it is announced there can be no extension of the engagement, and that no extra matinees will be played.

* * *

The fact that the individuality of Harry Bannister has been so completely eclipsed in Hollywood by the rise of his wife, Ann Harding, to screen fame, that they have decided upon a divorce, shows a reversal of their status as stock stars in Pittsburgh. Both were members of the original Pitt Stock Company that George Sharp managed. Miss Harding as leading woman, with Mr. Bannister playing opposite her. Miss Harding had established a reputation as a dramatic actress and had scored especially in "Tarnish." But stock audiences have their own preferences, and there was another blonde lady in the company that the customers liked in a big way. That was Anne Forrest, and it was not long before she succeeded Miss Harding as leading woman. Mr. Bannister continued as leading man, and he always was popular with the local audiences.

The following spring it was stated Miss Harding and Mr. Bannister would play the leads in the Nixon Stock Company in competition with Mr. Sharp's group in the Pitt, where Mr. Bannister had established a strong local following. He played in the Nixon throughout the summer, but the stork was on the way and his wife never played there in stock. A few months later she scored in "The Trial of Mary Dugan." Ralph Morgan had become leading man in the Pitt, and fate had it in the dice to put both him and Mr. Bannister in a touring company of "Strange Interlude," and to take them to Hollywood, where fate, too, reversed the relative positions Mr. and Mrs. Bannister held in Pittsburgh, where their little daughter was born late in the summer of 1928.

Bressart As a 'Dumb-Bell' in German Film

Garner Stirring Plea Wins House

Representative Snell, of New York, Republican leader, followed Garner with a pledge for support of a majority of Republicans to pass a tax bill that will balance the budget. Snell told the House:

"I want to say to the speaker, to the Democratic majority and to the people of the country that I am in entire sympathy with everything the speaker has said."

Garner's speech was comparatively brief and a considerable part of his remarks were devoted to a review of the events leading up to the present situation.

Reviewing the history of the tax fight which has plunged the House into the greatest disorder and organization revolt in 30 years, Garner said he had maintained from the start that the budget should be balanced.

He said when the Ways and Means Committee decided the only way to accomplish this was to levy a sales tax, he informed members he had always opposed a sales tax. He declared:

"But if I found it impossible to balance the budget and restore confidence of the people to the world in this government, as I believed, I would levy any taxes."

He told the House that having stricken out the sales tax, which produced more than $500,000,000 a year revenue, it was its duty to levy other taxes to make up the deficiency.

Minority Leader Snell received an ovation equal to that given Garner and a bit more noisy from the Republican side. Snell said:

"I want to say to the speaker, to the Democratic majority and to the people of this country that I am in entire sympathy with everything the speaker has said."

IMPORTANT OBLIGATION

"We feel that the most important obligation before this House is to pass legislation that will raise enough money to balance the budget and we are willing to do our part in furtherance of what the country expects of us."

Snell declared the Republicans had joined in the program for a non-partisan tax bill wholeheartedly.

Before Garner took the floor the House Ways and Means Committee reported out substitute taxes to replace the $595,000,000 stricken out of the bill when the sales tax was defeated.

He asked the House to "bury differences" and support the program.

Warning of the consequences of a failure to maintain the credit of the government, Garner said:

"Yesterday when the people throughout the world realized that Congress had indicated it did not intend to balance the bbudget what was the reaction?

"We found that foreigners were selling the dollar. We found our exchange going down more than it has in 12 months and we found this followed by a falling of United States securities.

"That meant that people who had placed $1,8000,000,000 in this country believing that this flag protected property as well as life, were afraid.

"When it was heard around the world that there was some doubt whether the budget would be balanced, they began to draw gold.

"If this Congress declines to pass a tax bill, I don't believe that there will be a bank in the United States in 60 days that could meet the obligations of its depositors.

WARNS MEMBERS

"I believe we would have a financial panic unequalled since the organization of this republic.

"I don't care what kind of taxes you levy. The committee has brought in a program. I don't agree with all of it, but I hope that you will approve the bill.

"I want you to be good enough, I want you to have the manhood when you move to strike out a tax to put something in its place."

When Garner asked for all who favored balancing the budget to stand more than 90 per cent of the members, both Democrats and Republicans, rose to their feet and applauded the speaker.

Earning Its Keep

"A WEEK-END at the shore? We couldn't possibly leave the children!" With Mrs. Burke this was a standard objection.

"But now we have a telephone," insisted Mr. Burke, "Mrs. Clark can call us if anything goes wrong." He pointed to the instrument, installed only the week before. It was the winning argument that made the trip possible.

No call disturbed the holiday jaunt. It was a carefree week-end without the slightest worry.

"What a wonderful time we had!" exclaimed Mrs. Burke on their return. Then, glancing at the telephone, she added, "and the telephone certainly earned its keep, even if it wasn't used!"

As an everyday convenience the TELEPHONE is worth many times its low cost. In emergencies it is priceless.

MACHINE READS AND WRITES

CHARLOTTE, N. C., March 29.—(AP.)—A man who dreamed for 15 years of a machine to do the work of a linotype operator today read in his home newspaper the statement of experts that he had made the greatest contribution to the printing business since the linotype itself was introduced.

It is called the semagraph—literally, a machine that reads and writes.

Buford L. Green, who put on his Sunday clothes yesterday to demonstrate it to newspaper and press association men from many places, is the man who had the dream which Curtis S. Johnson, publisher of the Charlotte Observer, made come true with financial backing.

Green's invention is really two inventions. On one of them, an electric typewriter, the reporter or copy preparer writes the story. Directly under each letter is a symbol. A scale tells exactly when a line of a given size of type has been "written."

This copy is then ready for the typesetting machine—linotype or intertype. Inserted under a tiny point of light below each letter, a photo-electric cell—the electric eye of modern science—registers the light impulse and transmits it to a magnetic light relay which trips the releases of mats just as now by the human hand.

Pete Eritano, 18, who turned states evidence, was sentenced to an indeterminate term in the Western Pennsylvania Training School at Morganza for his part in the crime.

Dog Withdrawn From Race for 'May Queen'

GRANVILLE, O., March 29.—(AP.)—The first dog ever to be a candidate for "May Queen" at an Ohio college is no longer in the race.

"Woogs," a pet of Beta Theta Pi Fraternity at Denison University, was withdrawn last night, when the names of three young women were added to the May Queen ballot.

The additions, Anna Robbins, of Chattanooga, Tenn.; Marjorie Stevens, of Dayton, and Juliette Spencer, of Columbus, were considered "satisfactory" candidates by some 150 men students who previously had threatened to vote for the dog.

Seven other young women previously nominated by a campus committee had been considered "unsatisfactory" by the insurgent students, who held these candidate were chosen because of prominence rather than beauty.

MURPHY, ACTOR, HURT IN CRASH

Bob Murphy, 42, of Binghamton, N. Y., veteran vaudeville actor who played the Loew's Penn Theater here two weeks ago, was one of three men injured in the taxi crash which early today killed David J. Nolan, manager of Loew's Rochester Theater, when the car skidded on the Buffalo-Rochester highway.

The others injured are Frank Smith, 50, treasurer of the Eastman concerts, and Edwin Hitchcock, 38, of New York, representative of the United Artists Pictures.

Murphy took the news spotlight here when he prevented the marriage of his daughter, Dorothy, and Al Samuels, both members of the stage unit in which he was master of ceremonies, after they had obtained a license.

HILL MEN HELD IN BILL FRAUD

Philip Mosely, 26, and Lawrence Wright, 22, Negroes, residing in the Hill district, were under arrest today and were being questioned by Operative in Charge W. A. Landvoight, of the United States Secret Service, relative to the circulation of "split" $5 and $10 notes passed on merchants in East Liberty.

They were arrested by police and turned over to the Secret Service. According to the latter the bills had been "split" and the backs and fronts pasted on $1 notes which also had been split. In passing the notes the merchants would be handed bills with the larger denomination face-up.

While the "split" note is not a new scheme to defraud it is seldom used because of the delicate operation required in "splitting" notes.

DIVORCE CASES MEET DELAY

To prevent the civil suits trial list from breaking down in Common Pleas Court, three judges hearing contested divorce cases adjourned these hearings yesterday until early in April, to take up jury trials.

This sudden shift was necessary because of the illness of Judges Joseph M. Swearingen, James H. Gray and John P. Eagan. Postponing the hearing of divorce actions in the midst of the proceedings enabled Judges Harry H. Rowand, William H. McNaugher and Sylvester Snee to hear jury trials. Before this was done only two rooms were operating on jury trial cases, those of Judge Thomas M. Marshall and Judge A. B. Reid.

A new panel of jurors reported for duty yesterday in the Common Pleas Court branch. Two of the three contested divorce cases had been started last week and were continued over until yesterday.

It is so Much More Satisfying to Own a LA SALLE

There are almost a hundred thousand motorists in America whose cars have cost them practically as much as a La Salle V-8—yet these people are not enjoying the supreme satisfaction of La Salle ownership. Their cars are providing neither the performance, the comfort, nor the high prestige which go hand-in-hand with a Cadillac-built car. Most of these people, no doubt, denied themselves a La Salle because they believed it cost considerably more to own so distinguished a car.

NATIONAL EXHIBIT
GENERAL MOTORS PRODUCTS
APRIL 2ND TO 9TH

Between April 2nd and 9th, the General Motors Corporation will hold a complete exhibition, in this community, of all its products. Cadillac and La Salle, as outstanding General Motors products, will naturally have a prominent part in this display. From every standpoint, this exhibition will be most unusual—and you should make your plans now to attend. Complete details will be announced in local newspapers at a later date.

Actually, however, they might just as easily have owned a La Salle—if they had only investigated. From first cost to resale value, La Salle is a highly economical car to own. In fact, many owners have found that it has cost them less to own a La Salle than their previous automobiles. If you are not now enjoying the advantages of fine-car ownership, get the truth about La Salle economy. Come in today for the facts—and an extended road demonstration.

The G. M. A. C. plan of payment is recommended to all buyers of Cadillac and La Salle motor cars

Among the many smart Pittsburghers who thronged the Alvin last night to see George White's Scandals were many of the members of the bridal party for the wedding Saturday of Mary Margaret Marshall, daughter of the Charles D Marshalls and Hally W Rafferty.

Before telling you about the gowns the women in the group wore last night I want to mention another party added to the many being given this week for popular Mary Margaret Charles Markland and Pete Wright will give a dinner tomorrow night in the Keystone Club.

Chooses Wistaria

Helen Leovy looked lovely in wood brown crepe and an extremely long sweeping wrap of brown velvet collared in mink. Genevieve Bell chose black velvet with a bunny jacket and Mrs Francis H McKnight wore beige lace with a peach velvet wrap.

I saw the Alexander Laughlins too with Mrs Laughlin wearing an afternoon frock with a caracul coat. Emily Fox wore blue georgette with a bunny jacket. The David I McCahills were chatting with friends in the foyer. Mrs McCahill wore pirate blue georgette with a black velvet and white fox wrap. Katharine McCloskey wore black and white crepe.

Unusual Costume

The T M Joneses III were at the theater too and Mrs Jones was wearing cream satin having a deep peplum banded with Kolinsky. Mrs Dorwin Donnells wore brown crepe and attractive Mrs Leonard S Mellor wore yellow satin with a black velvet wrap. With her was Louise Reed in China blue satin and an ermine knee-length coat.

I saw Mrs. William Penn Snyder in beige crepe with brown patent leather belt with her house guest Mrs J D Little of England. Mrs Little had chosen an ensemble of autumn brown satin having a tiered cape with which she wore a smart brown felt hat.

The junior William Christopher Robinsons I saw strolling in the foyer during intermissions and Mrs Robinson appeared in an afternoon frock of wood brown crepe with touches of green velvet and green velvet faced the revers of the smart brown crepe jacket. Mrs Simon T Patterson's gown was fashioned with the skirt of black velvet and bodice of beige and red georgette crepe and a short black velvet jacket buttoning with three brilliant-studded buttons in front.

Strolling In Foyer

I caught a glimpse of Mrs Alan S Humphreys and the Alexander Robinsons, the John Ricketsons III with Mrs Ricketson in deep brown crepe with a white satin collar and the William McCullough's.

'CEDAR CHEST' UNIQUE HOME

MISS PARTHENIA ROSS MISS VIRGINIA DRAKE

Handiwork of the Edward B. Lees Part of Original Scheme In Downtown Abode

Some of Mrs. Edward B. Lee's friends who hadn't previously seen her very original little home, "The Cedar Chest," on William Penn Highway, were given an opportunity to do so yesterday when she entertained informally for Mrs. Henrietta Meyer Bodycombe. Mrs. Bodycombe is here from Detroit for her part in the Tuesday Musical Club's manuscript program this afternoon and yesterday's guests were for the most part Tuesday Musical members.

"The Cedar Chest" is well named, for as you enter the living room you catch the fresh clean odor of the aromatic cedar of which its walls and woodwork are fashioned. Entrance by the way is up a steep, narrow stairway where the handrail is a heavy rope and the walls are papered with blueprints of Mr. Lee's architectural work. The ceiling is of the plain blue paper studded with silver stars. A tiny hall is papered with varnished maps of the United State, Allegheny County and Pittsburgh.

From the decorative brass sprays across the door to the most minute detail once can notice the whole scheme is original in the extreme. Over the living room fireplace, flat and mantleless, hangs a very much enlarged photograph of Pittsburgh at the Point, a quotation from Bancroft's history being lettered in a point, at the top.

Scheme Original

Mrs. Lee's own hand-woven upholstery on the chairs, the Harvard song lettered for a wall trim, the small Harvard decorations around the fireplace, and the Harvard red one sees everywhere (Mr. Lee is a Harvard '99 man, and Edward, Jr., is to be '34), are other unusual parts of the whole.

The ceiling in the living room is a fine map of the early discoverers. The "guest room" is an indoor bed concealed with a very fine piece of old hand-weaving. Off the living room is the tiny, compact dinette, done in silver and white with touches of the familiar red. The white enamel refrigerator and stove are almost self-effacing. The walls contain hand-lettered quotations concerning food and cooks, and even the floor has an original design.

The walls of the bedroom are "papered" with steel engravings under a tarpaper frieze of an old Waverly print in red that shows scenes from old Boston. The same material has been used to make the coverlids and on one door is lettered a poem to Massachusetts (Mrs. Lee's natal state), and on the other a Vermont poem for Mr. Lee's birthstate. On the ceiling map of New England are marked spots outstanding in the family history. The maps, by the way, are done on heavy watercolor paper and mounted on wall board, then placed on the ceilings with an appropriate frame.

Map on Ceiling

Even the bathroom in red and silver and black is different. The walls were handblocked in silver paper and then varnished. Again Mrs. Lee's handiwork is seen side by side with that of her husband, for here are some exquisitely fine handwoven fingertip towels and handwoven rugs.

All windows are hung with silver Venetian blinds and are without curtains.

Maurice Hindus Speaks At 20th Century Club

One of the largest audiences of the season heard Maurice Hindus, Russian-born American, at the Twentieth Century Club yesterday morning. To the older generation in Russia conditions today are a continuous agony; to the youth of the country they are an exhilarating adventure, Mr. Hindus said. Russia was described as the most satisfying place in the world to go for stimulation of the imagination and mind if one is filled with the spirit of adventure. Those who must have comforts and service were advised to stay away, as the country has neither the time nor the ingenuity for such everyday details.

Russia is a fact in the world and much more so than can be understood at present, Mr. Hindus stated. He cited several instances to show how "different" the country is from other nations. A Russian dinner party for an invited few, for instance, may become a mass meeting. The Russian peasant formerly had no national consciousness and no spirit of patriotism, but these are now being developed and the time will come when the peasants will dominate the country if for no other reason than their vast number. There are 120,000,000 of them, he said.

It is paradoxical that America, the country where private property and private enterprise have been most highly developed, is the means of destroying it in Russia, the speaker remarked, as he commented on the fact that American-made machinery is being used in collective farming. He described the hopeless, primitive methods used by the old Russian peasants.

There is no interference with the people who want to worship, but youth is atheistic, the family is still a unified institution, in spite of easy marriage and divorce, Mr. Hindus said, but what Russian civilization may become he refused to prophesy, saying it may take 100 years for it to crystallize.

BRIDE LAST NIGHT

MRS. EDWARD H. HEGMANN . . . PICTURED AT HER WEDDING

Mrs. Hegmann, the former Miss Mary Louise Haddock, daughter of the junior Rollins A. Haddocks, pictured shortly before her marriage last night. This is a Sun-Telegraph picture.

Mary L. Haddock Is Married to E. H. Hegmann

In a lovely spring setting last evening at 8:30 o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Rollins A. Haddock, Jr., of South Graham street, East End, their daughter, Miss Mary Louise Haddock, became the bride of Edward H. Hegmann, of Washington, Pa., and formerly of Pittsburgh, son of Mrs. Mary E. Hegmann, of Fredonia, N. Y. Officiating was the Rev. Albert E. Day, of Christ Methodist Episcopal Church.

The ceremony took place before a mantle banked with bamboo, southern smilax, ferns and spring flowers, with the bride and bridegroom kneeling on a Prie Dieu. The bride wore a Lanvin gown of parchment satin, having a long fan-shaped train, and a veil of imported Princess lace caught with lilies of the valley. She carried her Great-grandmother Margaret Jane Hawthorne's prayerbook from which showered a marker of lilies of the valley.

Mrs. Harry P. O'Neil, of Coraopolis, her cousin's matron of honor, wore a Vionet model in tea rose lace, and carried a Dresden bouquet. The maid of honor, Miss Beryl Hubbard, of Freeport, L. I., former classmate of the bride at the Sargent School, wore a Goupy model in pale green triple sheer chiffon. The bridesmaids, both classmates of the bride at the Sargent School, were Miss Grace Harris, of Pittsburgh, in turquoise blue triple sheer chiffon, and Miss Sue Condon, of Frederick, Md., in peach triple sheer chiffon, and they all carried Dresden bouquets.

Bridal Party

Mrs. Haddock chose a gown having a bodice of flesh pink beaded triple chiffon and a skirt of china blue.

Robert J. Hegemann was his brother's best man, and ushers were Rollins A. Haddock III, Edward A. Linhart and James W. Craft.

Miss Frances Taylor played the wedding march and her sister, Miss Marjorie Taylor, sang, preceding the ceremony, accompanied by Miss Winifred Reahard. Miss Nancy Metcalf gave the reception musical program.

The bridal path was marked with tall standards of flowers and ribbons. The wedding supper was served immediately after the ceremony, with the bridal table centered in Dresden effect. A buffet supper was served the 100 reception guests.

Wedding Supper

After a northern wedding trip Mr. and Mrs. Hegmann will be at home after May 1 in Third street, Washington, Pa.

The rehearsal luncheon for 22 guests was given by Mrs. Haddock's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clifford S. Marshall, of Coraopolis. The bride's table was centered with spring flowers and the guests' tables were also decorated with spring flowers. Later there was a tea and reception in the Haddock home for the out-of-town guests who arrived for the wedding. Assisting Mrs. Haddock were Mrs. W. G. Glunt and Mrs. Clifford S. Marshall, Jr. Mrs. Edward A. Linhart presided at the tea table.

SPORTS CLOTHES FOLLOW THE SILHOUETTE SCHEME

Sketched in Paris

Paris Bureau, Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph,

PARIS, March 29.—Even sports clothes follow the straight and narrow path when it comes to the silhouette. Of course, provision is made for width and comfort in walking by judiciously placed godets, but these are so placed that the essentially slim line of the skirt is not materially widened. The new sports clothes are delightful with a fresh and youthful charm that considerably enhances their appeal. The tailored note is stressed with many of the accents that pertain to the more formal or dressy mode cleverly blended into the general scheme without altering the design of the suit. The theme is one of neatness, for the neat frock or suit is the youthful design. Elegance is not in fashion, instead we wisely prefer to be neat and youthful in order to achieve the desired modicum of chic. The elaborate, overdone costume adds years and girth to the wearer, while artful simplicity has the opposite effect.

* * *

WE SHOW TODAY a sketch of a most attractive sports ensemble from the new but successful house of Vera Borea. The suit is done in beige wool crash and is trimmed with bright green kasha. The blouse, the padded shoulder rolls, collar and triangular patch pockets on the jacket are of the kasha. The buttons are of the same vivid green as the kasha, but are leather. The straight, slim silhouette of the skirt is retained, although there is a wide box-pleat at each side to give a comfortable walking width.

* * *

THE AFTERNOON FROCK is by Yteb and is of black crepe satin with the sleeves and the neckline edging of fine batiste embroidery. The bertha, like a shallow cape, is tied in front with the bow-knot appliqued onto the bodice. Triangular piecings forming a flat yoke give a closely moulded hipline, below which the skirt is laid in flat pleats, two in front and two in back.

CURTIS SEES LINDY CASE SHOWDOWN

DENIES BABY IN SWAMPS

Curtis scouted rumors the baby was in the Dismal Swamp section of Virginia, north of Norfolk. He said:

"Those rumors are absurd."

He was asked:

"Have you seen anything such as the baby's clothes or anything tangible?"

"That is a question I cannot answer."

"Did Dean Dobson-Peacock take a lock of hair or some of the baby's clothes up to Col. Lindbergh when he visited him yesterday?"

"If he did take anything like that I don't know anything about it."

"Was any picture of the baby supposedly taken by the kidnapers brought up to Col. Lindbergh by Dean Dobson-Peacock?"

"That I cannot answer."

In response to various other questions, the shipbuilder gave the stock reply of:

"That is a question I cannot answer."

He smiled quietly at some questions without replying, but was earnestly sincere in his responses to others.

SHUNS POLICE AID

He admitted that in case the negotiations fell through he would be put in an unfavorable light, but he indicated quite plainly that he had enough confidence in his "lead" to "carry on." He said:

"The negotiations may go through; the negotiations may fail."

He refused to give a definite answer to the question as to whether he was convinced of the authenticity of the persons with whom he was dealing.

Curtis said he had not brought local police or any other police officials into the case.

He declared that up to the moment the negotiations were being conducted strictly between himself and two conferees and the kidnapers.

Dean Dobson-Pearcock's trip north marked the second contact between Norfolk agents and Col. Lindbergh. He, Curtis, and Rear Admiral Burrage motored to the Lindberghs' Sourland Mountain home at Hopewell a week ago, and a "leak" brought publicity which Curtis said broke off negotiations when they were first begun.

SEMI-FINAL STAGE

The trip Dr. Dobson-Pearcock made Monday was to re-establish these, according to Curtis. He termed the dickering in a "semi-final stage." Curtis said:

"Dr. Dobson-Peacock went up to bring these negotiations to completion. You see, we had two contacts to make. I was away Saturday and Sunday. Today, Dr. Dobson-Peacock went up to make contact with the Lindberghs."

Beyond averring the 21-month-old son of Col. and Mrs. Lindbergh would have been safe in his crib today had not publicity halted negotiations, Curtis refused to talk about proposed methods of delivering the child to its parents or ransom money to kidnapers.

He said:

"I can't talk about any part of these negotiations. I don't want to know too much about them. I am doing all I can to try and bring the Lindbergh baby back to its parents. That's about all I can say."

A police guard was thrown around the home of the dean during the night. Officials explained this was because of newspaper publicity which it was feared might attract marauders.

Hope for Baby's Return By End of Month Ebbs

HOPEWELL, N. J., March 29.—(AP.)—Hope that the Lindbergh baby would be sent home before the month's end ebbed today.

The Rev. H. Dobson-Peacock of Norfolk, Va., who risked his life yesterday for an hour's talk with Col. Charles A. Lindbergh, said afterward he probably would confer again with the flying colonel in three or four days.

This statement by one of three Norfolk intermediaries who are trying to get the kidnaped child back was interpreted by newspapers as meaning that his immediate release was not expected.

Dean Dobson-Peacock reiterated, however, that he and the other two, Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage and John H. Curtis, boat builder, were optimistic.

SUCCESS SEEN

Also, Admiral Burrage, at Norfolk, said the three were "still hopeful the service they are attempting to do for the Lindberghs "will meet with success."

Col. H. Norman Schwarzkopf, head of the state police, said again that "Col. Lindbergh does not believe the information obtained at Norfolk to be of specific significance in this case."

What the Norfolk dean told the famous airman was kept closely guarded, although he did say the conference resulted from a "contact" with the kidnapers.

The clergyman, clad in windbreaker and heavy overcoat and carrying a shiny new brief case, flew with a Navy pilot from Norfolk to Philadelphia despite buffeting winds and rain and snow. From Philadelphia he motored to Hopewell, where state police kept him waiting before admitting him to the Lindbergh home.

DENIES TAKING RANSOM

Emerging, he said in answer to reports that he had not brought portions of the baby's clothes with him, that he was taking back no ransom money. He was asked:

"Did Col. Lindbergh receive your information with optimism?"

"I cannot speak for Col. Lindbergh. All I can say is that we are optimistic."

He did not say whether the "contact" with the kidnapers was made on a mysterious week-end airplane trip which Curtis took. The three men have been approached by some one they believe is acting for the criminals.

New Jersey Police Ignore Norfolk Men

By QUENTIN REYNOLDS

International News Service.

TRENTON, N. J., March 29.—The supposed negotiations being conducted with the kidnapers of the Lindbergh baby by three prominent Norfolk citizens were completely ignored today in the official police bulletin on the case.

The communique, unusually brief, dealt for the most part with the report that Abie Wagner, New York racketeer, wanted for questioning in connection with the abduction, "was killed some time ago in New York City."

The name of Wagner has been associated with his pal, Harry Fleischer, member of the notorious "Purple Gang" of Detroit. Fleischer is also wanted for questioning.

Regarding the reported death of Wagner, the police bulletin said:

"These reports have never been authentically verified, although rumors to that effect persist. These rumors have been reported ever since the search for Wagner was started, but in the absence of authentic verification further information is being sought concerning him."

"Fleischer has been reported in various sections of the country but no authentic information has been obtained as yet to his whereabouts.

"A letter was received alleging that a child resembling the Lindbergh child was held at a foundling sanitarium. This was immediately investigated and all children closely examined.

"No child was found resembling the Lindbergh baby.

KIDNAP PARLEY VOYAGE HINTED

BALTIMORE, Md., March 29.—(AP.)—Charles H. Consolvo, president of a Baltimore hotel corporation, has been asked to take the three Norfolk intermediaries in the Lindbergh kidnap case out to the 12-mile limit in the Atlantic Ocean to meet the kidnapers of Charles A. Lindbergh, Jr., according to Mrs. Consolvo.

Mrs. Consolvo said she talked by telephone with her husband in Norfolk last night, and that he told her arrangements had been made to take his yacht, the Marcon, with Dean Harold Dobson-Peacock, John Hughes Curtis and Rear Admiral Guy H. Burrage, retired, aboard to meet the abductors. Mrs. Consolvo said:

"The kidnapers are supposed to be in a boat 12 miles out. My husband told me that he understood they would be waiting there. The trip was supposed to begin this morning. I have heard nothing to indicate it was called off."

NORFOLK, Va., March 29.—Charles H. Consolvo, hotelman, today denied his boat had figured as yet in the Lindbergh kidnaping negotiation case. Commenting on a report that it had, he said:

"If the Lindbergh negotiators want the boat they may have it. However, as long as negotiations are to be kept secret it would be utterly ridiculous for them to use the boat now. Everybody knows the boat's name. Everybody knows where she is lying and as soon as she would sail she would be followed by scores of boats."

Consolvo and John H. Curtis are friends and it was learned the yacht had been offered to Curtis.

Don't expose yourself or others to infection ...use only
KLEENEX
Disposable Tissues

WHO can think of washing a handkerchief used during a cold, grippe, or flu, without a shudder?

And this job is not only repulsive. It's dangerous! Thousands of germs must be handled. They contaminate other clothing—spread germs wherever they touch.

It is quite unnecessary that you should expose yourself to this danger, or ask others to do so.

Use Kleenex and destroy

Therefore, you use it and destroy it. No self-infection. No spreading germs every time you use a handkerchief. No washing.

FEWER TRAFFIC MISHAPS AIM OF NEW LAW

McIntyre Explains Scope Of Codified Ordinance; Protection for Public

The aim of the codified traffic ordinance passed yesterday by Council, is to lessen the hazard to motorists and pedestrians from careless driving, not to impose greater penalties for minor infractions which inconvenience traffic, Lewis W. McIntyre, City Traffic Engineer pointed out today.

Overtime parking, driving the wrong way in a one-way street and similar minor violations are misdemeanors and the penalties are small fines, he asserted. No increase in parking penalties is involved and in many cases such as all-night parking, present fines are reduced, he added.

"Other infractions are, however essential to safety and often result in serious accidents. The codified ordinance endeavors to penalize these in accordance with their serious character. The ordinance does contemplate that all violators should be treated alike, and that a favored few be not permitted to violate common-sense rules with impunity while other well-meaning citizens are penalized.

"Many of the provisions are for the protection of children such as prohibiting clinging to moving vehicles, riding on handlebars, coasters and parts of vehicles not intended for passengers.

"Other provisions affect the safety of pedestrians, such as the requirements that all vehicles stop before emerging from a private driveway or building; that when a vehicle has stopped at a crosswalk to permit a pedestrian to cross the roadway, the driver of any other vehicle approaching from the rear shall not overtake and pass such vehicle; that a pedestrian who has started to cross on a green light shall have the right of way over all vehicles, including those making turns."

Blames Crooner For Police Radio In Auto

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Henry Herbert, 22, tried to blame his favorite radio crooner for his troubles but Judge J. William Brooks had different ideas.

Herbert said that the low wave radio set he had in his car was to listen to the crooner do his crooning, but the police said he made a practice of robbing stores and, then fleeing while hearing his description and alleged misdeeds broadcast over the police radio.

It's against the law in Illinois to have an automobile equipped with a radio capable of receiving police calls, and Judge Brooks sentenced Herbert to six months in jail.

"Shall you try again with another submarine to reach the North Pole?"

"Certainly I shall, but this time my submarine will be specially constructed to deal with difficulties noted during the voyage in the Nautilus."

"When will you start?"

"In the near future."

"Do you believe the submarine has advantages over the airplane in Arctic and Antarctic exploration?"

"I believe it will reveal valuable data of a different order."

"From which port will you start?"

"Probably from New York."

Many Aspirants' Hopes Blasted by Draw

—By MARK SHIELDS—

The hopes of many primary candidates have been blasted as a result of the drawing for ballot positions at the office of the Bureau of Elections in Harrisburg. It is a sad but true commentary on political affairs that in a scrambled contest, with many candidates for one place, a high position on the ballot is more effective toward winning an election than actual fitness for the post sought.

Mr. Shields

There are any number of electors who, after picking out the one or two candidates in whom they really are interested, then seek the easiest way on the remainder and mark the first names which come to view. That disposition was evident in the last primary here, particularly with respect to the judicial contest. First place was worth many votes to Judge Samuel H. Gardner.

* * *

Six Candidates For Three Nominations

In the primary this year for the Superior Court there are six Republican candidates for three nominations. The name of Judge William Parker, of Venango County, will appear first; Judge Joseph Stadtfeld, of Pittsburgh, second; former Lieut. Gov. Arthur James, third; Judge MacDade, of Delaware County, fourth; Albert G. Rotherford, fifth, and Judge Robert Gawthrop, sixth.

But for the fact that he is supported both by regulars and Independents, Judge Gawthrop would be in a somewhat precarious position, with three men as well known as Judges Parker and Stadtfeld and Arthur James, printed ahead of him with only three places to fill.

The most perplexing of the congressional races here, in the Thirty-second District, will find the name of Councilman M. J. Muldowney first on the Republican ballot for nomination. Muldowney is backed by the Coyne organization, a strong nucleus, to which he adds first place in a field of sufficient numbers to embarass any but the well-drilled voter.

* * *

Congressman Sullivan Is Victim of Draw

Congressman P. J. Sullivan, according to reports from Harrisburg, was a victim of the draw. He pulled sixth position. To complicate his campaign the place immediately preceding was drawn by John M. Morin. Tenth place was drawn by Patrick Joseph Sullivan, no relation to the Congressman. Already fearful that the presence of two Sullivans with the same initials on the ballot would confuse his friends, the Congressman now finds added to that normal confusion a juxtaposition of names.

Unless the Congressman is successful in court action to strike out the candidacy of the second Sullivan his followers will require an intensive campaign of education as to where to find his name.

Because of the army of candidates the drawings have not been completed and tabulated, and it is impossible to discuss some of the confusion certain to result in legislative districts. For example, there are approximately 40 candidates in the Twelfth district for four places. Some other districts are as bad. The Independents have a slate of four in the Twelfth and the regulars also will have their candidates. But a man on neither slate who has any acquaintance in the district will have an excellent chance to break through if he is found among the first four.

* * *

Perplexing Position Confronts Stadtfeld

The perplexing factional position which confronts Judge Stadtfeld in this campaign is sufficient refutation of the demagogic spoutings of some politicians that they do not let politics interfere with the courts.

Judge Stadtfeld was refused a place on the state organization slate. He is on the Independent ticket. He expects and should have support from the Allegheny County organization, the state organization having said this departure from the slate would be condoned.

Some friends of the Judge were fearful that his appearance at the Independent meeting tonight would alienate some organization men. Others insisted he should be present in all fairness, action either way should make no difference. But those conflicting plays of politics are what the Judge has been up against.

Perhaps you may say he should stand or fall with the Independents, having been appointed by an Independent Governor, and refused a place by the regulars. But the obligation to the Independents was discharged in the last primary, and the Judge owes this faction nothing.

He should be free to do what he can for his own interests and the decency of the bench.

BUSES' FREIGHT PLAN FOUGHT

The petition of the White Star Lines for Public Service Commission approval to carry package freight on passenger buses operating on routes out of Pittsburgh met with stiff opposition from the Pennsylvania Railroad, Pittsburgh Railways Company, express companies and independent carriers today. C. F. Eyli, manager of White Star Lines, said it was planned to carry freight up to 50 pounds on five routes extending to Point Marion, Waynesburg, Uniontown, Monongahela and Belle Vernon.

Our 'Moby Dick' Congress--Far at Sea, Can't Swim

—By ARTHUR 'BUGS' BAER—

It ain't a bad idea to tax luxuries.

We hope they tax all of 'em we can't afford.

That's a funny thing about taxes. It's great when they're plastered on the other guy's barn.

But, when a tax walks up to you, looks you in the eye, tips its hat and say "Howdy do" it's a hoss from a different garage.

We've finally realized that taxation without representation ain't any cheaper with representation.

SUSPECT FACES EXTRADITION

James P. Williams, 27, arrested Wednesday as he stepped from a Columbus mail plane at Bettis Field, today was ordered turned over to Federal Court in Boston on charges of forging money orders and impersonating a postal engineer.

Federal Judge R. M. Gibson set bond at $5,000.

Williams, postal officials said, had stolen credentials representing himself to be Gustave A. Johnston, a postal engineer, in his possession when arrested. He said he would not fight extradition to Boston.

West View Board Approves Tax Plan

The personal property tax plan of the Allied Boards of Trade, designed to relieve the burden of taxation from the home and other realty, was approved last night by the West View Board of Trade. C. V. Shoup, president of the body, presided.

The tax plan, those who advocate it say, would increase county revenue $8,000,000, and relieve home owners. "Relief" was discussed by Harry Bastow, president of the Allied Boards of Trade.

COUNTY TRUCK QUIZ TURNS TO CONTRACTOR

2 Commissioners to Hear Kittanning Man Explain $200,000 Pay for Hauling

County Commissioners William D. Mansfield and C. M. Barr were to be present late today when Watson Bowser, Kittanning contractor, is expected to explain how it was he received $200,000 from the county for truck hire. Bowser was to appear at the audit hearing being held before Controller Robert G. Woodside, and tell of his dealings with the county.

It is said he did not have a contract, but that the late Commissioner Joseph G. Armstrong hired Bowser and set the rate at 60 cents a ton for hauling. When Roy D. Schoolel was superintendent of the road department he changed the trucking system from a day rate of $30 to a tonnage basis.

From statements made by witnesses to M. C. Conick of Main & Co., who is making the audit, and County Solicitor J. P. Fife, it is said that some outstanding disclosures are to be made. A grand jury investigation may result.

RELIEF SESSION DEMANDED

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(AP.)—Agitation for another special legislative session for unemployed relief was renewed today following a report by the relief committee that its funds will be exhausted within a few days.

Horatio Gates Lloyd, chairman of the committee, said that $2,500,000 would be available to the committee to continue its work of feeding nearly 60,000 Philadelphia families if the State Supreme Court in April decides that the Talbot bill is constitutional. If the court rules otherwise, his report said, there is "no avenue of escape from the debacle which lies immediately ahead."

Furthermore, he declared, the State Legislature is the only possible source of revenue for the committee to continue its work after July 1 when the expected Talbot fund would be exhausted. An additional $7,500,000 would be necessary for the rest of the year, the report said.

Urges Conventions Ratify Amendments

WASHINGTON, March 29.—(AP.)—The Bingham resolution, proposing that constitutional amendments giving added power to the government over the people shall be ratified only by state conventions, was advocated today before a Senate judiciary sub-committee by George H. Williams, a former Missouri Republican Senator.

Williams referred particularly to the prohibition amendment as one which would have to be approved by state convention rather than by state legislature under the Bingham proposal.

Destitution—Then Desperation

Delineating the desperation that springs from destitution, E. M. Ashe, nationally famous illustrator and member of the art faculty of Carnegie Tech, contributes his conception of the silent tragedy behind the doors of one of Allegheny County's 28,000 jobless homes, in the second of a series of drawings by well known Pittsburgh artists.

Surrender to the grim realization that nowhere is there a job, nowhere a market for his labor, nowhere an opportunity of bartering whatever he has to offer for food for his loved ones—that is the story written on this American citizen's face.

Twenty-eight thousand families are without breadwinners. But many times 28,000 have jobs and it is to those who have work that the Harris Family Help Family organization turns for help.

Do not delay accepting your responsibility. Adopt your family today by calling the association's headquarters in the William Penn Hotel. Phone Atlantic 7810.

28,000 HOMES DEPENDING ON HARRIS PLAN

Sunday Sermons on Relief Urged; County Destitute Still Face Hunger Fear

Representatives of Protestant and Catholic churches of Allegheny County have given complete support to the family-help-family campaign headed by Senator Frank J. Harris. This plan is believed to be the best way of meeting the crisis and relieving hunger in 28,000 families.

Prominent Protestant ministers are sending letters to all ministers in their group in Allegheny County asking that a sermon be preached on the relief situation next Sunday and that workers be recruited in the congregations.

COMMITTEE LEADERS

The Protestant committee is headed by the Rev. Dr. A. R. Robinson and includes Bishop Alexander Mann, Bishop Herbert Welch, the Rev. Dr. Jacob Payton, the Rev. Dr. Homer Flint, the Rev. Dr. P. W. Snyder, the Rev. Dr. Albert E. Day, the Rev. Dr. C. E. Krumholz, the Rev. Dr. Hugh Thomson Kerr, the Rev. Dr. C. W. Petty and the Rev. Dr. C. A. Voss.

Catholic churches are already working. Representatives of Jewish congregations are to meet Thursday night.

The city relief organization was operating smoothly from six centrally-located stations yesterday, but doubt still filled the minds of many needy families in the county who have had their relief cut off by the collapse of the Emergency Association.

COUNTY FATE IN DOUBT

The Poor Board made no announcement regarding its negotiations for a loan of $260,000 for direct relief. Maj. J. Clyde Miller, director of the poor, said that if the loan can be obtained, distribution of relief in the county is not likely to start before Thursday.

In the county, 7,500 families on Saturday lost the assistance which they had been receiving through the Emergency Association. Many of these persons received baskets of food during the latter part of last week, so that they will not begin to suffer hunger unless aid is withheld for a week or more.

Registration of Jobless For Gardening Begins

Registration of persons wishing to provide food by cultivating gardens this spring was started today at the headquarters of the Thrift Garden Committee of the Allegheny County Emergency Association, 516 Grant street.

Preference will be given to the unemployed. A quantity of good garden land has already been provided, and more is being sought, W. P. Witherow, chairman of the committee, announced.

Four types of gardens are included in the program. There will be home, group, industrial and camp gardens. The home gardens will be organized largely by the community councils under the direction of Dr. O. E. Jennings.

The group gardens will be the largest operation. Tracts will be plowed and staked this week. Transportation will be furnished to persons living at a distance, Witherow declared. Seeds will be provided by the Red Cross.

Gardens by employes of industries are to be planted this year on a scale not seen here since the World War. The Pittsburgh Coal Company and the Jones & Laughlin Steel Corporation have announced large garden programs.

Camp gardens are planned to cultivate some of the more inaccessible land in the county. Plans are under consideration for tent colonies to cultivate large farms.

The Irene Kaufmann Settlement is again offering prizes for the best gardens planted by school children in the Hill district. Last year, under the supervision of Sidney A. Teller, the Settlement registered 1,965 gardens.

165 Policemen, 80 Firemen Furloughed

A list of 165 patrolmen and 80 firemen, to be furloughed for a month, beginning April 1, in accordance with the city's economy program, was selected today at a conference of Public Safety Director James M. Clark, Police Supt. Peter P. Walsh and Fire Chief Richard Smith. All members of the police and fire bureaus will take 30 days off without pay this year.

Young Bank Clerk Who Lost Job, Home, Finds Emergency Aid Gone

Welfare Group Aided Family Until Funds Became Exhausted

The T——'s had spent their last dollar. T—— was a high-type American, well-educated and capable of taking care of his family. He had married when he was 21. At that time, he was employed as a clerk in the bank.

His wife, a young woman with a college education, had been a volunteer social worker before her marriage. They started their married life with every chance for a brilliant future.

T—— received three promotions in the bank in which he was working and a girl and a boy were born.

Mrs. T—— living a reserved and sheltered life, lavished on her children and husband all her affection. She was proud of the financial success T—— was making and the six-room cottage they were buying was furnished with extreme care. T—— painted all the furniture, and his wife made colorful curtains, rag rugs, and chintz covers. The mortgage on the house was $3,500.

Early in 1930, the disaster occurred. The bank in which T—— was employed failed, and he was unable to obtain any employment. He applied to many friends and relatives, but without success.

Eventually, the family rented its home and moved into furnished rooms. The persons who were occupying the house were unable to meet the rent and moved out one night, taking many of the articles over which Mrs. T—— had labored. A short time later, the family lost the home, as the mortgage was foreclosed.

T—— wandered helplessly along the streets for two days, trying to work out in his mind a plan for the family. He happened to meet an old friend of his who was engaged in social work and this friend brought him into touch with one of the agencies under the Emergency Association. T—— was too upset and emotional to tell his story and so that phase was delayed, and the immediate food problem was solved and a month's rent arranged.

After the immediate problems were taken care of, a worker assigned to the case carried on a series of tactful interviews with the family and built up a strong bond of friendship and the T——'s now feel they can come to the agency with any problem and that it will be dealt with, in confidence.

The trouble is—that relief funds of the Emergency Association are exhausted—and there is not much consolation that the social worker can offer.

'MOTHER' LYRICS' MOST POPULAR

Have Biggest Appeal For Radio Fans Rubinoff Says

Mother themes strike the greatest response in radio listeners, at least Dave Rubinoff with his violin has found it so. Pittsburgh's broadcast artist is here with his parents as he prepares to open a week's engagement Friday at the Stanley Theater.

"Mother is closest to the heart."

He would play a mother song on all programs if it were possible, Rubinoff revealed. They draw the greatest amount of fan mail. He said:

"The record for all mail was set when I played that old Yiddish number, 'A Letter to Mother.' Yet all mother songs bring in letters. There seems to be something for the listener to feel, some lasting remembrance because mother is the closest to all our hearts."

DAVE RUBINOFF PLAYING FOR HIS FOLKS AT THEIR HOME

WILL ROGERS SAYS

BEVERLY HILLS, Cal., March 29.

To the Editor, Sun-Telegraph:

That baby news from down in Virginia sounds the most encouraging there has been. Of course, this is a case where everybody wants to get in on it and claim they know something, but if we can trust those prominent men like that to know what they are doing, look what it would mean to give out all this hope falsely. Why, it would just show you how some folks could be either misled, or to what means they would go to get publicity. But, I believe they know something, and we will all get some good news, and the world will look brighter to everybody.

Will Rogers

Yours, WILL.

Newsboys Assessed 5 Cents Weekly, Funds Collected For Club, State Charged

McKee declared:

"We desire to have this case prosecuted."

Rosemary Kennedy, 23, of Brightwood, testified she had solicited contributions to the newsboys' club from 500 ministers and the Women's City Club.

Dennison testified Epstein charged the newsboys 5 cents a week each with the understanding they would receive $3 a week benefits in event of illness. Epstein was said to have collected about $500.

In holding Epstein for court Rotherberg said:

"It is hard enough for legitimate charities to obtain funds and there is too much involved in this case for me to attempt to settle it."

Woman, Two Children and Man Invalid Carried to Safety Via Fire Escape

A woman, a sick man and two children were carried to safety when fire broke out last night in the second floor hallway of a three-story apartment house at Lorigan and Edmond streets, Bloomfield.

Six fire companies, summoned by two alarms, checked the blaze. Flames started in a clothes press and spread rapidly to the third floor.

THINGS WE TREASURE

From time immemorial man has held in high esteem those things which bring to him a satisfaction found in values that are not limited by utility. We all rejoice in sheer beauty, we treasure the unique and distinguished; and anything that gratifies this instinct is a very real value. For value is nothing more nor less than the satisfaction secured for what we pay.

Thus Fleetwood coachcraft has contributed a substantial value to all three series of the new Cadillac—the V-8, the V-12 and the V-16. It is a greater value than ever, matching the supreme excellence of the engineering. For new facilities and unprecedented co-operation have released the Fleetwood genius in full flood. The beauty of the new designs is a beauty so harmonious with all considerations of utility and comfort as to have no counterpart in precedent. The care devoted to every detail in the light of its relation to the conception as a whole, achieves creations of most distinguished character. And, finally, an interesting new plan has distributed these values in a unique manner.

If you, too, prize the values that Fleetwood has to offer, you may secure Cadillac V-Eights with Fleetwood bodies of the new order, at a cost which could never before bring you the satisfaction values of Fleetwood coachcraft.

Boys and Girls Among Last Witnesses Summoned in Arnold City Death Trial

UNIONTOWN, Pa., March 29.—Testimony in the trial of a mine superintendent and eight guards charged with murder following the slaying of Mike Philipovich at Arnold City last summer, was concluded today, the thirteenth day of the trial.

Three boys and three girls, state rebuttal witnesses, testified they were in the crowd of strikers gathered around the Philipovich store when the proprietor was fatally shot, to refute testimony that no children were present.

Carl Maurer, state trooper, testified he found only an old and unused revolver in Philipovich's house after the shooting. Some of the defendants had previously testified several shots had been fired from the door of the store and residence.

The kind of a gun carried by Guard John B. Yoder, during the riot, was again under fire. Previously witnesses said he had carried a shotgun. On the stand yesterday Yoder identified a rifle as the weapon he carried.

VALLEE FAVORS 'CHEER' SONGS

Writing a song for prosperity as President Hoover suggested would not cure all the nation's ills, but a song on every person's lips would have the psychological effect of spreading cheer, the crooning Rudy Vallee said here today.

The leader of the Connecticut Yankees, catching up with his business correspondence in the William Penn Hotel between performances of George White's "Scandals," paused long enough to explain that while the President was not serious in prosperity song suggestion, aspiring composers have not missed the opportunity to submit many numbers.

The radio entertainer has definite ideas as to his best field. Radio has won him his feminine followers but, he declared, stage appearances are necessary to bring him masculine favor. Men, he explained, "must see that I am only human and natural to understand me."

Motion pictures have beckoned to Vallee, he admitted, and to have a permanent home in California would please him. But, he said:

"I could not give up radio work, and the cost of wire service to broadcast programs from the Coast would be too much. I had an offer to appear in a production being started April 19, but the 'Scandal' contract prevented accepting."

Mrs. Vallee, the former Fay Webb, was nestled beside her popular husband. Smiling to her, he added:

We Can't Hold Happiness by Spending Time Fretting

Are you a fretter?

Are you sure that little Bobbie has been kidnaped every time he's five minutes late from school?

Do you see horrible visions of dad lying mangled and dying if he misses the 5:15 home from the office?

Do you constantly indulge in shivers, shudders, handwringings and cold sweats because something is maybe going to happen some time?

Yes? Then here's a little playmate to share your gloom. Mrs. E. M. W. is that way too, and she wonders what, if anything, can be done about it.

"Dear Sally:

"I wonder if you would do me a favor and give some advice about fear? I never miss your column. I read it always and think over a lot of things you say, and I would like to have you tell me what you think about fear of losing someone dear to you.

BECOMES FRANTIC

"I don't mean about premonitions, but about thinking how awful life would be without that person you love—about feeling a terrible fear of what may be ahead.

"It is just this that is wrong. Every time my husband is an hour late in getting home I am frantic. I keep looking at the clock and thinking that surely something dreadful has happened to him, and all sorts of terrible thoughts fill my mind.

"I have been married for six years, have a nice little home and a little girl, and I am very happy, but I am always thinking that my happiness won't last. Do you think that is because we are alone together so much?

"Before we were married we both went out and mixed a lot, but since then we seem to find each other all that we need. We never go out without each other. That is why I keep thinking how alone I would be if anything happened to my husband. Even my family never seemed close to me like he does.

BUILDING A TRAGEDY

"I suppose I sound very foolish to you. Maybe you think that if I were busy I wouldn't find time to think of those things, but I do keep busy until I hear of some accident or sudden death, then I begin thinking and it makes me miserable. I picture all kinds of things—baby asking for Daddy and so forth.

"He is so good and it seems as though the good ones go soonest. Or is it Fate, when one's time is up and do we go then regardless of anything? Please tell me what you think. This probably sounds like a foolish letter to you, but it is terribly important to me.

"MRS. E. M. W."

I'll say it's important, lady. It's so important that you're going to ruin the big boys and the little girl's life if you don't snap out of it. Whether or not fate shuffles the cards for us, dealing out comedies or tragedies, I do not know, but I do know that you yourself are deliberately building a tragedy for yourself and your loved ones by your foolish brooding.

But I can't help it! I love them so! you cry.

You can help it. You're not suffering from any unique ailment. You don't love your family any more than other women love theirs, nor are they in any greater danger than other human beings. Other women control their fears—laugh them off—work them off. Then you can control yours.

Nor is your nervousness based on love. It is based on idle hands and an idle brain. It is based on a thoroughly unhealthy program of living.

STUPID INDULGENCE

What sort of an environment are you creating for your husband, what sort of a future are you preparing for your little girl, if you live in a huddle as you're now doing? Your husband will go stale. Your daughter will grow up with no knowledge of the world, no ability to contact other human beings, and so bound to you that you will be unable to part with her or she from you.

Snap out of it! Stop this stupid, selfish, sickening indulgence of your fretty fears. Force yourself to be cheerful. Cheerfulness doesn't just happen, we must work for it. How? By living normally. By creating fresh interests in out[illegible]. By substituting healthy hop[illegible]sh for morbid suspicion and fea[illegible].

Open your doors. Open your heart and soul. This isn't love. This isn't life. It's just a case of heeby-jeebies, and your-self-made boogie men will surely catch you if you don't look out!

All Jobs Hold Something of Grind, Says Fay King

By FAY KING

We think the other fellow's job is more pleasant than our own because we are not aware of the wearying details of it as we are of our own.

But every position, be it the most important or glamorous, has its routine of tiresome details as well as the less important work in life.

There is a grind also to the work of the movie star, the author, the artist, the actress and all those whose positions are of enviable fame or power.

The stenographer must rise early, but her day's work is done at 5:30 and her evenings free.

The actress can sleep late, but must rush to the theater at 7:30, and often envies those who have free evenings.

Contract Bridge :: Official System as Adopted By Leading Authorities :: By E. V. SHEPARD

Synopsis of Feature Showing

"Feature showing," or "slam bidding" as it was named before 1920 by auction players bidding for high slam premiums, consists of exchanges of specific information between partners. Bids have unusual meanings after one partner has given a "slam signal," and the other partner has agreed to the declaration suggested by the first.

The features shown are aces, then kings, sometimes even queens and jacks; possession of all aces not held by partner, and suits in which no tricks can be lost. Frequently this explicit information discloses whether game, small slam or grand slam should be the goal. All this will be found explained in detail in my "Contract Bridge Standardized." The following brief synopsis will help those who have not read the book. Even those experts who do not employ feature showing admit that in no other way can bidders be certain of results. ...e chief reason why so wonderful a system of bidding is not more widely used is because the forcing two bid was introduced among tournament players before they really knew much about the game. The official system, using the semi-demand two bid is admirably adapted to the option of showing features.

An opening bid of two of any suit announces "game expected, slam hoped, provided partner holds normal trump support and not less than two probable tricks." An assist or shift proceeds as under the ordinary rules of the official system. If the original bidder thinks that slam probabilities exist, under the feature showing option he does not raise the bid in his suit that partner has accepted as trumps; he bids his lowest suit headed by an Ace. This is the signal for the assisting partner to show the lowest suit held that is headed by an Ace. Lacking a suit headed by an Ace, the assisting hand may bid the suit of which partner has just shown an Ace. Such a bid announces possession of the K. Lacking ability to show an Ace of a side suit, or to show the K of a suit of which the original bidder has shown the Ace, the assisting hand shifts back to the original suit, thus announcing "a slam is impossible."

If the original bidder has his suit bid of two raised to three, he will bid game in case he does not seek a slam. Only when seeking a slam does the opening bidder show aces.

Most of the slam seeking occurs when the original bidder's partner jumps an opening bid of one to three. That is a demand for the original bidder to show his lowest side Ace, by bidding that suit. He must obey orders. Only in case the original bidder holds no side Ace may he rebid his original suit. Under no circumstances may the original bidder refuse to respond to his partner's demand for another bid.

A third method of giving the slam signal is when the opening bidder's declaration has been overcalled at his left. Provided the partner has exceptional support for the opening bid, and no losers in opponent's suit, he signals for Ace showing, by making a bid of the opposing suit.

The player giving the slam signal is under no obligation to show his features in regular order; he may bid his hand in the way best calculated to elicit desired information. The other partner must respond conventionally, showing features in regular order, beginning with the Ace of his lowest value suit. Tomorrow will be given an illustration of feature showing, to make the subject clearer.

Correct Manners

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

The Best Man

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I am expecting to be married soon. I am puzzled about this: Would it be proper for my future wife's brother to be the best man? He is unmarried.

OBLIGED.

Correct it is for you to ask your fiancee's brother to be your best man, if you wish. But usually the groom asks either his own brother, if he has one, or, if he hasn't, his cousin or one of his best friends. If his fiancee's brother happens to be his best friend, then it is natural for him to ask her brother to be his best man. But he shouldn't give this invitation just because he is her brother.

Often the bride-to-be urges the groom-to-be to have a brother or other relative of hers as his best man, even when the groom-to-be prefers to have his own brother for his best man. This is not an appropriate thing for her to do. The groom should be allowed to do his own inviting of his attendants.

The Left-Handed Habit

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Is it proper for a left-handed person to reverse the procedure in the use of knives, forks and spoons?

JOHN.

A left-handed person has to do one of two things . . . either continue to use his silver pieces "in the reverse" or make up his or her mind to learn to use them in the right hand. Now, the longer the silverpieces are used in the left-handed way, the more awkward and embarrassing it will be, and the harder it will be to change. This change can be made, but it takes great will power to do it. However, it is worth it, a million times over. Life is like that . . . and the left-handed person should make up his mind that the sooner this change is accomplished, the better.

How to Keep Well

By DR. ROYAL S. COPELAND

Respect Your Kidneys If You Value Good Health

Today I want to tell you a few facts about the kidneys, facts with which I believe everyone should be familiar. We can live without a stomach, or after many yards of the intestine are removed, but if both kidneys are removed death will occur.

Dr. Copeland

Nature provides two kidneys, so that if one kidney becomes diseased the other may take over the necessary work. A diseased kidney can be removed and all will be well provided the remaining kidney is normal and healthy.

The kidneys serve as filters to catch certain body wastes. Poisons are formed in the system by reason of definite chemical reactions. These poisons get into the blood and are carried to the kidneys, where they are filtered out and excreted in the urine. The blood and body tissues are kept healthy and clean by this action of the kidneys.

When the kidneys are diseased the mechanism is impaired and poisons accumulate within the body. Such a condition may be caused in a variety of ways, but it is most frequently due to an infection. This disaster may be a complication resulting from a simple cold. It may follow tonsilitis, or an infection of the teeth or throat. A boil or abscess on a finger or toe may be sufficient to produce a blood stream infection that will carry germs to the kidney and produce there an abscess, or similar condition.

Recently I told you about Bright's disease and pointed out that this condition was frequently confused with other less serious diseases of the kidney. Any inflammation of the kidney is called "nephritis." Bright's disease is merely one form of nephritis. After a long illness such as pneumonia, grippe, typhoid fever or rheumatic fever, nephritis may develop. In children, scarlet fever is always serious because of the danger of kidney infection.

Some persons are more susceptible to kidney disorders than others. Often the ailment may be traced to some injury of the kidney received in early childhood. It may be the result of an accident or of infection, or of congenital weakness of the kidneys. Tuberculosis of the kidney is sometimes found in an adult, who may have had the disease for many years, yet was unaware of the infection.

Many persons are too careless about the food they eat. Please remember that indiscretion in diet is a short cut to kidney disease. Eating acid foods, excesses of foods, or of alcohol, nicotine or caffein—all are injurious to the kidneys. These vital organs are delicate in structure and cannot withstand continued injury and abuse.

Every individual should have a urinalysis made every six months. This should be complete and not merely consist of testing for albumin and sugar.

SPORT COMMENT

By James J. Long

Detroit Helpful Enemy. • Danger in Clark Deal.
Saves Star for Jackets. Day's Election Popular.

FIELDS TOPS LOCAL HOCKEY SCORES

THE DETROIT OLYMPICS who succeeded in keeping the Yellow Jackets out of fourth place and a berth in the International Hockey League title playoffs opening tonight, are regarded as bitter rivals of the local skaters, but the Reidmen's enmity toward the Michiganders hardly is justified, according to the observations of Carl Shatto, Sun-Tele hockey expert, who points out that last season Detroit lost seven of eight games to Pittsburgh and in doing so not only yielded a playoff place to the Jackets but enabled the locals to nose out London for the last money position.

Whitey Fields

And this was only one of the Olympics' friendly gestures, for in a game here early in the 1930-31 campaign they permitted Whitey Fields to break through for three goals, thereby saving for Pittsburgh one of the most valuable puckmen on Coach Charley Reid's squad. Papers granting Fields his outright release signed and sealed were to have been handed Whitey the morning after the Detroit game, but his great work against the Olympics prompted Coach Reid to destroy the document.

FIELDS SHOWED HIS appreciation by finishing with 15 points to place fifth in the Yankees' individual scoring race and while this mark was far from creditable it represented a very modest effort compared to the big-chested centers great work in the season just closed. The 1930-31 individual scoring records of the Reidmen show Fields to be the leader with 31 points, seven more than Capt. Tony Gregg compiled in leading the Jackets the preceding season.

Gords Fraser, rugged defense man is second with 24 points, and Stu Dunning, who collected eight points with Cleveland before coming here in January, would with 17 [illegible] 30 games and 14 assists, also deserves mention in the league scoring for a wider margin, despite the fact that injuries kept him out of several games.

FIELDS COLLECTED HIS 31 points by scoring 18 goals and assisting on 13 others. His goal total is at least twice that of any Jacket other than Fraser or Dow Romines and his points aggregate is only 10 below that of Carl Voss of Buffalo league leader.

Fields no doubt would have been even closer to the league leadership had it not been that he was shifted to defense much of the time when a Pittsburgh guard was sent to the penalty box. Exceptionally rugged for a forward, Whitey would stand a good chance of advancing into the National League if permitted to perform regularly at defense.

THE INDIVIDUAL SCORING records (the goals total is greater than the number scored by Pittsburgh because of the fact that Dunning scored several for Cleveland before coming here) are as follows:

	G	Assists	Pts.		G	Assists	Pts.
Fields	18	13	31	Ingram	6	4	10
Fraser	10	14	24	Matte	4	4	8
Dunning	11	6	17	Miller	3	2	5
Rodden	6	10	16	Locking	2	2	4
Gregg	7	6	13	Ratan	2	1	3
Romines	11	1	12	White	1	1	2
Arbour	6	4	10	Holmes	1	0	1

JOE MATTE, young, fearless, an amazingly fast skater and an ambidextrous stick handler, showed as much class in the closing weeks of the campaign that it appears likely he will be the first member of the present crop of Jackets to win National League spurs.

Glenn Wright

IT STRIKES A Pirate follower that Max Carey may be overlooking a bet in his efforts to fill the hole left by the departure of Glenn Wright for the Dodger lineup. Rookie Gordon Slade, decided by heaved Joe Stripp more trouble at third, Carey has tried Murray Dickson and Hollis Thurston at first and is now thinking of trading Pitcher Wally Gerber to the Baltimores.

It is rumored here that Donie Bush once planned to trade Glenn Wright from a short to a first sacker because one of Wright's pitches happened to be going back on him. But it figured Glenn would make a star ballplayer at either and many other baseball men shared the opinion.

THE POINT RAISED by the Pirate fans now is that if the Brooklyn shift is to be only temporary, Carey might be moving Wright to first base and giving Gordon Slade a shortstop get better results than he has displayed.

But Max is unwilling to resort to Russoniello preferring to plug the hole permanently by pushing through the deal for Bottomley, if possible, even though he has to give up Clark in exchange.

CAREY ARGUES THAT the Dodgers would be stronger with Bottomley at first base every day than with Clark pitching a ball game every five days. That's only one angle. What about the effect of such a deal on the pennant race in the National League? Even as things stand now, the possibility that any other club will be able to prevent St. Louis from winning its third straight flag isn't very robust and if they were given another lefthand pitcher of the caliber of Clark, with Jim Collins available to replace Bottomley and keep the infield from being weakened, the Cardinals might make the 1932 race even more of a walkaway than was that of 1931.

THOUGH IT HAD been generally understood for some time that Leroy P. Hank Day had the inside track for the football coaching vacancy at Washington and Jefferson College and would eventually be chosen, official announcement of his appointment was none the less gratifying to friends of Day and of the school.

From every angle, Day measures up as the right man for the place. As coach at Washington High School he has proved himself one of the ablest mentors in prep school circles anywhere, and there is every prospect that he will be equally successful in the collegiate ranks. He knows football thoroughly, how to teach it, and how to handle players and represents besides the highest type of sportsmanship and clean athletics. It is an excellent selection.

EFFORTS OF SOME of the friends of Alfred Banket, three-time national handball champion, to induce him to change his mind about becoming a professional boxer have been unavailing.

Banket seemingly is more determined than ever to carry out the plan to enter the "Tasty Gill" former University of California football player, turned pro as a lightweight, recently and in his one bout a week ago

Alfred Banket

THE HANDBALL KING sees in boxing means to go through with his Queensberry plans, and has placed himself in the hands of Moose Toomey, veteran San Francisco manager, who expects to have him ready for his first start in a short time. Banket is looking forward confidently to a successful career in the prize ring, [illegible] and speed with his fists and he does not see equipped for the ring than the average man taking up the glove game. All that Banket ever got out of handball, he says, was glory—and expenses. He wants a career that will pay dividends.

HANK NAMED TO SUCCEED BILL AMOS

Leroy P. Hank Day for 16 years director of athletics at Washington High School on Friday will begin a five-year term as head football coach at his alma mater, Washington and Jefferson College.

Announcement of the selection of the protege of Bob Folwell to the position which it was known was to be filled since the resignation of William F. Amos for four years a member of the coaching staff of the school three years as head coach came late last night.

Hank Day

That weeks of negotiations between representatives of the athletic council of W. & J. and Day had resulted in the popular mentor accepting terms became known when his resignation was presented to the athletic committee of the Washington Board of Education. That it will be accepted by the board as a whole is a matter of formality which will take place Thursday night and the following day he will assume his duties at W. & J.

SERVICES SOUGHT

Day was not an applicant for the position always having been content to remain at Washington High School to which he went immediately after his graduation from W. & J. first as an instructor and as assistant coach of football and then for 14 years in the position of director of athletics. Finally he was persuaded to accept the post which was offered him with the unanimous consent of President Hutchison, the trustees, and the athletic council.

The five-year contract tendered him is the largest ever offered to a gridiron coach at W. & J. in the more than 40 years the sport has flourished at the institution. The largest previous one was that of three years under which Andy Kerr was influenced to leave Stanford, where he was serving as assistant to Pop Warner, and go to W. & J.

Day's coaching efforts at Washington High School were crowned with remarkable success. His teams not only won three W. P. I. A. L. titles and shared another with Johnstown when a scoreless tie was played in 1917, but have been contenders annually with the exception of three seasons over that long period. Their finished play, showing a remarkable degree of precision, has long been noted.

PLAYED WITH STARS

In Hank Day's playing days at W. & J. he was on a squad which had such outstanding stars as Red Fleming, Russell Goodwin, Johnny Spiegel and others who carried the Red and Black to the very forefront in national football with victories over Yale, Pitt and others, being defeated only by Harvard, 10 to 9, in 1914, the banner year under Folwell's leadership.

Stimulated by those contacts Day left W. & J. to take the position at Washington High School and there established by dint of hard work over a long period of years the reputation and prestige which have swelled in his alma mater calling to him to take over the duties of the position of head football coach.

Termed the Knute Rockne of W. P. I. A. L. football by some of his admirers, a successful future for Day in his new position is predicted by many.

Three World Swim Records Hung Up

NEW YORK, March 29.—Three new world records were hung up last night as the New York Athletic Club defeated the Los Angeles A. C., 53 to 27, in their dual swimming meet at the N. Y. A. C. tank.

The New York A. C. team churned through the 400-yard relay event in 3 32⅘, bettering the previous record of 3 34 9-10. Although finishing behind New York, the Los Angeles team also made better time than the old record. They were clocked in 3 34 4-10.

The same clergyman officiated at both functions. The golden bride, who now is 66 years old, was married at the age of 16. Lampson's unusual privilege almost rivals that of the German duke who celebrated two golden weddings in succession with two successive wives at an interval of 50 years, as featured in the "Believe It Or Not" series some time ago.

HOCKEY CROWNS AT STAKE

By CARL W. SHATTO

Two teams will be eliminated from the National League championship race as the International League's annual title series is inaugurated in Detroit and Buffalo tonight.

The International League playoffs should provide fireworks in large quantities right at the start, in that the team appearing in Buffalo tonight is to be London, co-favorite with the Bisons to wrest the championship from the Windsor Bulldogs. The winner of this game will be regarded as an exceptionally good title bet.

The Bulldogs begin the defense of their laurels by invading Detroit for a duel with the Olympics, and if they fail to rap this one they can be regarded as champs. The Detroiters showed so little strength in the closing weeks of the regular season that they have been conceded a fine opportunity to bring up the rear in the round-robin series.

In the National League's dueling for the Stanley Cup, emblematic of the world championship, Les Canadiens of Montreal will meet the Rangers in New York in the fourth game of the series for first place contestants. The Rangers have won two games and need only one more triumph to dethrone the Canadiens as champs.

The battle fronts in the two-game series between second and third-place teams shifts from Chicago and Detroit to Toronto and Montreal respectively.

In the opening games Chicago beat Toronto 1-0 and Detroit and the Montreal Maroons fought to a 1-1 tie. These short series are decided on total goals. Montreal, playing on home ice, should eliminate Detroit, and Toronto, trailing by one goal, stands a good chance of taking the measure of Chicago.

CHILLYSAUCE

By CHARLES J. DOYLE

Unless Gus Suhr perks up in his batting, Manager George Gibson may be forced soon to develop a new Pirate first-sacker, and in the absence of any known trade negotiations, the pilot may find it expedient to call on his pasture patrol for candidates. Paul Waner has shown himself to be a nifty southpaw around the gateway post, and Woody Jensen, being every bit as lefthanded as Brother Paul, the swift Dane might blossom into a star, if brought into the infield.

Jewel Ens was just about ready to throw in the towel as he serenaded Galloping Gus last year. Suhr's miserable showing in the last campaign made Jewel sell "uncle," and small wonder, for it was one of the reasons for the the collapse of the club. Gibbs apparently has wrought a change in the batting stance of the big first-sacker, but so far the new idea has failed to click. On the other hand, the experiment has not had sufficient time, yet if Gus expects to stay in there after the bell rings, he must show something.

Suhr should take heart through the experiences of others who came to the big show with well-defined weaknesses. George Kelly was a mess on a ball served around his shoulders or letters, but by constant practice he became proficient in hitting this sort of a pitch, in fact the smarter pitchers found in time they had to vary their repertoire when flinging to the big fellow. Gus, it is presumed, is weak on a low pitch. Plenty of practice on low offerings seems to be the only way out of the dilemma.

Albert Kennedy (Rosey) Rowswell, much-traveled raconteur and Pirate defender for 15 years, is rumbling into former Buccaneers almost daily as he rambles along on a lecture tour. At present Rosey is regaling the wide-open Southwest with his oratorical talents; he spent some pleasant days in the baseball camps of Florida and Texas as he pleasurably mixed his after-dinner dishers with the game he loves so well. LOS ANGELES, March 29.—The daily morning workouts which Manager Gibson has been giving his squad each day since they arrived here showed their effect as the Buccos triumphed over Detroit, 5-4, in a 13-inning battle yesterday.

The Pirates are en route to Santa Barbara, where they play the Los Angeles club, of the Pacific Coast League, today and tomorrow. They return here Thursday, opening up a four-game series with the Chicago Cubs.

CORSAIRS LOOK GOOD

The Corsairs displayed much better form yesterday against the Tigers than they have to date this season, the general all-round play being far superior to that of their opponents.

This much is verified in the total number of hits made by the teams, Detroit taking the lead in base hits, 18 to 14, but they were unable to fathom the Bucco hurlers with runners on the paths.

The Pirates, on the other hand, lost little time in pushing runs across when the opportunity offered, and despite their laxity in piling up hits, they were able to score the triumph.

Bill Swift and Ervin Brame gave brilliant exhibitions on the mound in the duel with Wyatt and Herring. Both Pirate pitchers were hit freely, but they managed to bear down when danger threatened to prevent the Detroiters from crossing the plate.

SUHR, VAUGHAN STAR

The Bucs played a sensational game in the field, with Gussie Suhr coming through with the most spectacular play of the game. In the seventh, Suhr dove into the dirt along the first-base foul line to grab Alexander's line drive, which barely left the top of the grass.

Floyd Vaughan, recruit shortstop, playing in the place of Tommy Thevenow, continued to shine in both hitting and fielding and captured the batting honors for the day with a triple, a double and single in six trips to the plate.

Charley Gehringer tied the count for the Tigers with a home run in the ninth inning. Roy Johnson also contributed a home run to the Tiger cause.

It looked as if darkness might intervene when the Pirates forced across the winning run. Suhr walked, Piet sacrificed and reached third on Vaughan's tap to Pitcher Herring. Then Grace's long fly to Lawrence let in the tally that broke the deadlock.

WOOD UNDER KNIFE

Charley Wood, Pirate pitcher, was operated upon for appendicitis at the Methodist Hospital yesterday. He was reported resting quietly following the operation.

He complained again yesterday of severe pains on his right side and Manager Gibson decided to have another examination made. Wood was taken to Dr. C. W. Cook, who ordered an immediate operation.

Nick Altrock Baseball's Humorist Says:

GULFPORT, Miss., March 29.—I see Wall street has taken charge of this year's baseball season. The latest quotations show the backers favor the Athletics and Cards to cop again and they are selling the rest of the league short.

Nick Altrock

Well, I've got no faith in Wall street. Two years ago, it said prosperity was around the corner. Yeah, it was around the corner—going the wrong way down a one-way street.

Let Wall street control the pennant race and it's a fine situation. If the A's go into a temporary slump, J. P. Morgan will call on Connie Mack to put up more margin. And if the Cards get going good, Wall street is liable to split up Pepper Martin three for one. Blah!

DAY APPOINTED W. & J. COACH

head coach at that school in 1917 and in his first season had a contender for the championship, playing Johnstown to a scoreless tie in a post-season struggle for the championship.

Since then his teams have been in the forefront. His 1919 eleven was one of great power, but in the debate over the contenders for the title was lost sight of. In 1920, his team played and defeated Fifth Avenue, 14 to 7. In 1922, Washington lost the title to Wilkinsburg, 7 to 6, at Forbes Field. In 1923, Allegheny was walloped, 60 to 0, in a championship contest. In 1926, Wilkinsburg was trounced, 26 to 0, in the title struggle.

Washington has not annexed a gridiron title since then, but has almost annually been among the three or four which had to be considered in the final reckoning.

FINE 1931 RECORD

The past fall, the title went to Clairton under the point system, but Washington followers made a clamor for a post-season game, banned under the point system, claiming that the Washington High team was the greatest Hank ever developed.

Along with the announcement that Day was to be head football coach, it was stated that Wilbur (Pete) Henry, former all-America athlete at W. & J., would be recommended to athletic council and trustees for the position of director of intercollegiate athletics, replacing the old graduate manager of athletics, and as line coach.

Day also will have charge of track and field sports at W. & J. and in this department has been as consistent a winner as in any other, half a dozen championships having been won by his athletes during his years at the school.

Van Belle gave the French star, Albert Corty, his first defeat in five starts, 400 to 350, in 31 innings, while Soussa, winding up with an unfinished run of 153, conquered the leading American contender, Francis S. Appleby, of New York, 400 to 247, in 13 innings. It was Appleby's second defeat.

See is Suspended In N. S. F. Check

CHICAGO, March 29.—(AP.)—Leon See, manager of Primo Carnera, today was under suspension by the National Boxing Commission, at least until a check for $1,400 is made good.

See gave the check to pay a fine assessed by the Italian Boxing Federation, in order to make possible a bout between Carnera and King Levinski at the Chicago Stadium last fall. The check came back marked insufficient funds, and Gen. John V. Clennin, president of the N. B. A., ordered the suspension. The ban does not affect Carnera.

Another cheap main bout proved a dud at Motor Square Garden last night, but this time only a handful of the faithful was on hand to be bored and annoyed.

Eddie Lord, of Hartford, Conn., won over Charley Baxter, of McKees Rocks, in the tame, messy 10-rounder that found the fans booing for action at the end of almost every round. Lord won all of the way on his experience, fighting out of a shell and outsmarting Baxter. The latter, strictly a right hand puncher, couldn't get that gun off his shoulder after clipping Lord in the first round and spent his time chasing Eddie, but always finding himself out of punching position or tied up when he caught up with him.

RETREATING BOXER WINS

Meanwhile, Lord, doing most of his scoring with a long left hook on the outside and roughing inside, and constantly in full retreat, didn't show nearly as well in victory as he did in losing to Battling Gizzy in the same ring recently, and the fans who sat in on the thing simply wasted the evening.

The preliminaries weren't much better. Lee Sala bested Young Rudy in the eight-round semi-final, a swinging affair; Lloyd Clements got a win via the referee's decision route over Walter Ketchel in the second bout, another woozy affray, and Mickey O'Brien knocked out Harry Price with a right to the jaw in the fifth round of the opener.

The next boxing show at the Garden will be staged April 11, by which time it is to be hoped something worth looking at will be arranged instead of more of the mediocre stuff that has been foisted upon the fans at top prices at the last two shows.

Between Rounds

Angel Chiclle, the Porto Rican Panther, who meets Tiger Joe Wolf in one of the two 10-round bouts at the Kappahan Arena Friday night, with Gus Salerno and Joey LaGrey in the other feature number, is ranked sixth among the middleweights of the world in the latest ratings of the National Boxing Association. He is one of the deadliest punchers in the business.

Eddie Simms, of Cleveland, bosses K. O. Christine over the six-round route there Friday night.

Benny Bass and Jimmy Mack box a 10-rounder in Philadelphia Thursday night, with Johnny (Kid) Adams and Sailor Eberhart in the semi-final. Dan Mazzoli boxes Billy Ketchel and Primmy Conway opposes Harry Bendy there Friday night.

Angelo Verglnne will bat Kaye Angeloff and Hal Tinnes will oppose Johnny Lewis in preliminaries to the Willie Davies-Tony Martino bout in McKeesport tomorrow night. Joe Malcolm and Joey Barrone are in the semi-final.

Bojarski Stopped In Philadelphia Bout

PHILADELPHIA, March 29.—(INS.)—Tottering on the brink of pugilistic oblivion Lew Massey, local lightweight, had regained a place among the leading 135-pounders of the country today by a technical knockout victory here last night over Harry Dublinsky, tall Chicago Polish battler. The end came in the fourth round, when the referee stopped the contest due to a badly injured right eye suffered by the visitor.

Jeers and boos greeted the stopping of the contest, although Dublinsky couldn't see out of the injured optic and Massey was clearly out front.

Tony Falco, stablemate of Benny Bass, stopped Frank Bojarski, of Erie, in six rounds in the semi-final. This contest also ended via the technical knockout route when the referee decided Bojarski could continue no longer because of a severe beating and a tightly closed righ eye. Bojarski had been battered helpless by the local Italian, being down for two counts of nine in the third round and again in the sixth when the bout was stopped.

South Park Poloists To Play Robinhoods

SUSCE, LOCAL BOY, SOLD TO TIGERS

DETROIT, March 29.—(AP.)—The Detroit Baseball Club management has announced the outright purchase of Catcher George Susce, Pittsburgh lad, from Beaumont, of the Texas League.

At the same time, it was announced that Recruit Catcher Hugh Wise, former Purdue University baseball and track star, would figure in a deal now pending, but neither the identity of the player sought nor the club with which negotiations are in progress was revealed.

Susce batted .312 in 88 games with Springfield, of the Three-I League, last season and has been named by Manager Bucky Harris, of the Tigers, as a probable regular during the 1932 season. Wise batted .231 with Beaumont last season and his weakness at the plate was a factor in his loss of a regular berth to Susce.

FORMER SCHENLEY STAR

An Oakland boy and former student of Schenley High School, George Susce has been a bright spot of the Tigers' training in California. Beaumont purchased George from Springfield, of the Three-I League. The Texas League team has a working agreement with the Detroit club, so it was not difficult for the Bengals to get George for a tryout. His purchase by the Tigers means that Susce is more impressive to Manager Bucky Harris than some of the other catchers. Jewel Ens, new Tiger coach, accompanied Susce to camp. Jewel's coaching of the youngster has had much to do with his advance.

SUTHERLAND ALL-NORTHERN TEAM TUTOR

By JESS CARVER

They've selected Pitt's Dr. Jock Sutherland as head coach of the all-Northern football squad, which is to meet a team of picked Southern players in the Municipal Stadium at Baltimore next December 10. The selection was made by Mayor Howard Jackson, of the Maryland city, who is in charge of arrangements for the game, which its sponsors hope will rival the annual East-West all-star game in San Francisco.

Jock Sutherland

Mayor Jackson first appointed Mel Stevens, head mentor at Yale, as advisory counsel for the game, and then, after careful study, decided upon Sutherland for head coach. He'll select a mentor for the Southerners next month.

The Northern team will be selected from outstanding senior players of Northern colleges and universities. This may cut into Andy Kerr's harvest of stars for his all-East team, but unless the bottom falls out of the college football player market, there should be enough to go around.

One of the dining rooms at the P. A. A. will serve as the amphitheater for the annual banquet of the West Penn Basketball Referees' Association tonight. To those who have attended former West Penn dinners, the foregoing sentence is self explanatory.

The basketball arbiters, once the season is over and their whistles carefully packed away in moth balls, gather around the festive board, listen to stirring talks and even more stirring toasts and finally, just when everything is rosy, Leo McGlinchy gets to his footsies and the fun commences.

DUKES NAME TEAM

Coach Joe Daugherty, of the Duquesne University boxing team, will take three boxers with him to the Olympic tryouts at Penn State next week. Daugherty will have in tow Freddie Moore, the star 145-pounder; Speedy Vitulla, a 115-pound puncher, and Tony DePiero, crack 175-pound freshmen. Trainer Brue Jackson, the golden-voiced ankle-wrapper, and Graduate Manager of Athletics Holahan will accompany the scrappers.

MEET ENTRY HEAVY

To date, 15 high schools have entered teams in the eighteenth annual University of Pittsburgh Interscholastic Swimming Championships, which will be decided in the Trees gym pool Friday evening and Saturday afternoon. Meet Director Pat Carr expects the final count to show more than a score of contesting squads.

Strong Vincent, of Erie, with another powerful squad, is a favorite to defend the title it copped a year ago.

The Pitt authorities have decided to stage their annual scholastic track and field meet, which will be the twenty-fifth annual gathering, Saturday afternoon, May 7.

Star Trackmen Must Qualify For Olympics

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP.)—A suggestion that the outstanding performer in various track and field features be arbitrarily picked for the United States Olympic team and thus exempted from the tryouts met with a cold reception yesterday among officials.

"Can't do anything about it," said William England, of Baltimore, chairman of the track and field committee, and the remark was echoed by Daniel J. Ferris, secretary of the Amateur Athletic Union.

The suggestion was put forward by Eddie Farrell, coach of the Harvard track team, who asked why men like Gene Venzke, George Spitz, Ben Eastman and Frank Wykoff, outstanding in their fields, should be forced to go through a tough siege of competitive trials just before the Olympics.

WHITAKER NINE TO RETURN

By TOM BIRKS

It appears evident that the preseason gossip counting out the Whitaker club is all wrong. A meeting has been held and Johnny Popp, veteran sandlot star, is to be the team's playing manager this season, while Alfred J. (Dutch) Ackerman, will be the business manager. Dutch now is squire at the Homestead suburb and will be very much in the Whitaker corner.

Whether or not the team will play league ball remains a question. Last season it competed in the Greater Pittsburgh loop. This circuit was closed before Whitaker decided to have another club.

Ackerman and Popp attended the last meeting of the West Penn loop and formally made application for a berth alongside of the Homestead Aces, Turtle Creek and the Marty Griffins.

The West Penn may extend the loop to take in Popp's outfit. For some reason or other the league was holding a berth for Reliance Life.

With Reliance Life going into faster company this season, its followers are expecting to see Hurley back with the pitching staff, following a season's idleness. He was one of the best twirlers in the district two seasons ago.

PRO OFFICIALS NAMED FOR TOURNEY

Red Robinson and Jock Simco, professional judges, have been named by the boxing commission to officiate in the Allegheny Mountain Association A. A. U. championship tournament which opens at the Keystone A. C. tomorrow night and continues through the remaining nights of the week. Other judges include Councilman Harry Little, Dr. Paul Franklin, Attorney Walter McVay and Harry Neaman.

Ralph Shinton and Simon Carlson, the latter of Uniontown, will be the referees, and Stanley Waechter, of the Keystone A. C., the announcer.

TITLE SERIES OPENS

The Kloeker-Morris unit, the North Siders, and 9-15 in Soma Hall tonight in the first of a series of games for the championship of the second half of the West Penn League. Another tilt will be played tomorrow night at Forrester Hall, and a third, if necessary, on a neutral floor, Saturday night.

DISPATCH GIRLS WIN

How to Escape FLU and Grippe

1 Avoid so far as possible the places where germs are most likely to be spread; overcrowded cars and public meeting places; stuffy, poorly ventilated rooms.

2 Be careful of close contact with others and beware of all coughers and sneezers; breathe through the nose, get fresh air but avoid drafts or chilling.

3 Get lots of rest. Drink plenty of water. Keep the bowels open. Take extra precaution to keep in good physical condition, so your system will have normal resistance against germs.

4 Try, particularly to avoid catching cold. Colds lower your resistance to disease germs. At the first sign of any cold, take Bayer Aspirin and remain indoors if possible until your cold is gone. Gargle with Bayer Aspirin dissolved in water at the first touch of sore throat, as this relieves the soreness and usually reduces the inflammation.

5 If you have any reason to suspect even a touch of flu, call your doctor at once.

STRONGER TONE DISPLAYED BY STOCKS

Market Withstands Heavy Selling in International Telephone; Leaders Gain

NEW YORK, March 29.—(AP.)—The securities markets developed a decidedly better tone today, as Wall street was encouraged by indications that Congress was once more making real progress toward balancing the budget.

Stocks pushed up at the opening, withstood in an impressively strong manner a flurry of selling in International Telephone during the morning and worked slowly higher once more after 12 o'clock. Trading remained sluggish, however.

By early afternoon gains of a point or two appeared in such issues as United States Steel, American Can, General Motors, Union Pacific, Santa Fe, New York Central, American Telephone, North American, Allied Chemical, Drug, Air Reduction, American Tobacco "B" and Sears Roebuck. In the morning session International Telephone dropped 2¾ to a new low all but later recovered more than a point. A few other soft spots appeared at that time, Anaconda and Southern Pacific sagging about a point to new lows, but most of the leaders held up well.

The market was also aided by the detailed announcement of the Ford Motor Company's new models, which the automobile industry hopes may loosen considerable deferred buying for all of the larger manufacturers. Improvement shown in several more railroad operating reports for February was also helpful.

The more reassuring outlook for a balanced budget was reflected in a letup of pressure against the American dollar in the foreign exchange markets. The French franc slipped back well below the point at which it would be profitable for Paris to take more gold from New York, and the pound sterling reacted a few cents. There was also a lightening of pressure against United States government bonds.

The combined condition statement of weekly reporting Federal Member banks indicated that there had been considerable further hangover deflation. It was notable, however, that banks increased by $14,000,000 their investments of securities other than United States governments. Loans on securities, however, shrunk to the extent of $76,000,000 or about double the decline in brokers' loans for that period and all other loans which includes commercial loans dropped $58,000,000. A considerable part of a drop of $149,000,00 in demand deposits presumably reflected payment of income taxes.

LOANS FOR RAIL WORK HELD BENEFICIAL

By MERRYLE S. RUKEYSER
Universal Service.

NEW YORK, March 29.—As time goes on, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation experiment becomes increasingly extraordinary.

Unlike the privately endowed National Credit Corporation, which appears to be rapidly reducing its commitments, the Reconstruction Finance Corporation, which operates with governmental funds, can and not only banks but other business institutions, including railroads. The carriers can also look for succor to the Railroad Credit Corporation, which pools the fruits of the freight rate increases. The latter, however, is authorized to make loans only to enable railroad corporations to meet fixed charges. The Reconstruction Finance Corporation goes a step further, and has considered loans to permit railroads to finish construction work already undertaken.

Mr. Rukeyser

ACTION INTERESTING

The application of the Pennsylvania Railroad for a $55,000,000 loan from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation to finish electrification work is interesting in view of the action just authorized in the matter of a loan to Missouri Pacific. In reluctantly approving the Missouri Pacific operation, the Interstate Commerce Commission makes it clear that part of the April 1 advance from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation will be used to pay off half of the road's obligation to two leading private bankers and one important trust company in New York.

Although the Reconstruction Finance Corporation was intended to aid banks, it was not set up to take care of investment bankers, who have long taught the country the alleged merits of self help.

But in the present discussion let's waive all consideration of equity, justice and propriety in using governmental funds to save private bankers from the consequences of their own miscalculations. I propose to raise another more practical issue, namely, the effect of reconstruction finance loans on economic recuperation.

GIVES MEN JOBS

It seems to me that instead of dodging loans for construction the corporation ought wherever feasible to encourage borrowing to create new values, rather than borrowing to salvage by artificial means values which have already been destroyed. Construction loans, such as the Pennsylvania has applied for, mean job-giving activity and general stimulus of business. They contribute somewhat to breaking the present economic deadlock.

I think that from the standpoint of the general public such a loan is more constructive than an advance to bail out private bankers.

EMBERS OF LOVE -:- Story of a Pretty Girl in Whom Burned The Flame of a Great Emotion -:- By HAZEL LIVINGSTON

CHAPTER XLVII.

Lily Lou moved into the apartment that Maxine had fallen heir to. Got permission to have a small upright piano. It was the only thing they ever really quarreled over.

"A grand would have given us a little class! But that thing—ugh!"

"I know, it isn't very beautiful. But I've got to live cheaply. You don't know how poor I am. The only clothes I have are the grand evening things Madame Nahlman gave me, and I can't wear them on the street."

Maxine grinned. "Oh something will turn up!"

Back home in Woodlake if she had read about a girl coming to New York and falling into the sort of luck she had had, she wouldn't have believed it. You either had luck, or you didn't. Maxine, who practically lived by her wits, being "stranded" enough a technicality, this girl took everything and gave nothing but her personality.

She and her small circle were the sort whom traveling salesmen from Columbus and all points west invariably meet and take to dinner, a show and a roof cabaret afterward. The number of blind dates that Maxine acquired was something that never failed to astound Lily Lou, who steadfastly refused to accompany her.

"Why not? Free meal, good show—I make 'em get the best seats, and pick the shows. Dance a bit afterward if they can dance, eat some more and then leave 'em. All they ever get is a kiss, and not always that. Not so bad—for a plain looking girl. Heavens—you—with your looks could get away with jewelry and furs without it costing you a thing!"

LILY LOU PROUD

Lily Lou laughed. "No. I couldn't. I just couldn't do it. I—I don't know—early bringing up, I guess."

Maxine grinned. Said nothing.

Lily Lou flushed painfully. She knew what Maxine was thinking. That she was a fine one to talk about morals, she a girl all alone with a baby.

But she could not let herself feel that way. Hold your head up, Lily Lou! Don't you let them make you feel that you're bad! You WERE married, and you've just as much right to that baby as any girl ever had to any child, and it isn't as though you and Ken were separated for sordid, ugly reasons, either. . . You did it because it seemed the best thing to do . . . for him. . . .

Poor Lily Lou! Poor, mortal memory. She believed that now. Peggy Sage was forgotten. Peggy Sage had never been. What happened after she left was different.

She wasn't satisfied yet. But, at least she was making progress. She was getting to have an air. "I'm no Nahlman yet," she told herself, "but I will be. I'll be all I used to tell Ken I'd be. I'll do it. I'll manage. I'll fight it through . . . but oh, if I just had a little more money!"

GWIN IS GENEROUS

The next few months would be ghastly. Even doing all her own laundry and all the cleaning in the apartment and cutting her food down to almost nothing, she didn't see how she'd manage.

Gwin was staying at his Long Island home during the summer months and only came in one day a week to teach. Lily Lou hesitated when he made out her first week's check. "I can't take a week's pay for a day's work," she said dejectedly.

"You must live. How much are you paying for the baby's board?"

"Fifty."

"And your rent?"

"There's none. The apartment belonged to a girl who—who married or something, and went to Europe, and the lease isn't up until November, so Maxine and I—"

"I see." Gwin wiped away a smile. "So there's just the food, and one doesn't want to eat much this hot weather. I spend quite a lot on carfare though—to get out to Jamaica Park to see the bubchen, but I'm hoping to get church work—"

He wheeled on her sharply. "I won't coach you if you force your voice!"

"I won't force it. I'll be careful."

"Careful, hell! I've told you what happens to coloraturas who break down!"

"But Gwin, I'll be careful. It isn't as though I were just beginning. I know how to keep my voice forward now—"

"All right. Choose between the church and that Metropolitan chorus idea you and Tony were raving about."

IS EMBARRASSED

"Exactly!"

"But even you said I had to eat!"

"And didn't I offer to pay?"

"I don't know why you should," she said sullenly, because she was embarrassed.

"We'll decide that later." He put his arm around her shoulders, and kissed her easily, on the mouth. "I don't want my little Lily Lou to be too thin!"

He had never kissed her before, had never done anything like that. And yet there had always been a look in his eyes . . . a waiting look . . . as if he were taking his time.

She went home, more shaken than she had been since the old days when she first faced the bubchen's coming. If she could only have stayed with Nahlman until summer was over . . . But no use to cry over spilt milk. Besides, the reason that she had not stayed the summer with Nahlman was Nahlman's husband, and the look in his eye, like that in Gwin's.

She began to walk up and down distractedly. Just because a girl is in a difficult situation, why do all men have to expect . . . to collect.

She said something of it to Maxine, afterwards.

MOTHER IS ILL

"Of course," Maxine said, "you'll be up against it hot and heavy from now on. I don't suppose any of 'em really believe I'm a good girl—though I am—but anyway they think I MIGHT be. There's a reasonable chance. They can't be SURE they're getting stung—discriminated against, I mean—because they don't know I've been married. But a widow—grass or sod, they figure differently. Somebody's had her—do you see what I mean?"

"It isn't fair. Just because a girl has been married—"

Well, she'd get a job. She thought of the things she could do. Waitress. Telephone operator. Pianist.

But if she took a regular job she couldn't keep on with Gwin—nobody would let her off a day a week. And after his regular classes started she could conscientiously take the money. Twenty-five dollars a week and free lessons, with lessons costing $25 the half hour . . .

Oh, how did anyone ever do it? How did girls ever become opera singers? And even if you had the voice, and the background and the languages, and the dramatic school training, the dancing, the fencing and all the rest of it, whatever in the world did you do for money to live on?

She'd have to have money for the bubchen's board. Tony . . . but she couldn't ask him for a loan, he had too many back debts—it wouldn't be right . . .

There was no one else. Maybe she could write home. Perhaps they could advance her something, and then when Uncle Eph's estate was settled. Besides, this would be the last time she'd have to ask. Perhaps they could spare her just a few dollars, say for two months, until Gwin started full time classes again . . . She got up, and wrote out the message, night letter.

Sorry to have to tell you impossible help you now. Did not want to alarm you, but mother has had the flu and now pneumonia. Asks for you constantly. Wish you could come, but no use to consider it, if you are broke. Will let you know of any danger.

"May."

And right on the heels of that:

End very near. If you can borrow from Madame Nahlman come, suggest you do so, for mother asks for you constantly. All the rest of family together. If you cannot borrow Raymond and I will manage to send you ticket. Advise. "May."

By late afternoon Lily Lou wired May, bought her ticket, and had kissed the bubchen a tearful goodby.

She had $550 of Dwight Gwin's money, and how she was ever to repay him she didn't know.

Synopsis

Lily Lou Lansing has ambitions to become an opera singer. She meets Kentfield Sargent, son of a wealthy shipper. Ken is also interested in Peggy Sage, prominent society girl. Ken admits his love for Lily Lou and they go away and are married. When Lily Lou first sees Ken's mother she is told that Ken was not old enough to get married. Anxious days follow. Then Lily Lou is told by Ken's father that the marriage has been annulled. He gives her $500 and a ticket to New York. In New York she has a hard time getting a job and her money runs low. From a home town paper she reads that Ken has become engaged to Peggy. She learns that she is to become a mother. She gets a job as accompanist with Dwight Gwin, voice teacher. Nita Nahlman, famous opera singer, hears Lily Lou sing and offers to take her to Europe to study. In Vienna Lily Lou becomes the mother of a baby boy. When Lily Lou recuperates they return to Paris, where, through an injury to one of the singers, Lily Lou gets her first chance to sing in opera. She sings well and wins much praise. Lily Lou and her baby are sent back to New York by Nahlman. Maxine asks that they live with her.

Madge Faces Problem in Keeping Younger Boys Safe

Roderick and Junior plied me with questions as we went up the two flights of stairs from their basement playroom to the nursery.

"Where is the man hurt? Can he talk? What does he look like? May we see him?" They ran the gamut of questioning, and kept me busy trying to invent answers for them.

For I knew no more than they what was happening behind the closed doors of the library. I had asked Lillian in an undertone, and she had shaken her head.

USES OLD RECIPE

"They haven't even been out for hot water," she said in a tone inaudible to the boys. "I'll go up now and hang around outside the door, so if they need a messenger boy, I'll be ready to double for one."

"Where is Dicky?" I had asked, speaking in a tone that boys could hear. I did not wish to have them think we were trying to keep anything from them, and I knew Lillian could be depended upon to be sufficiently cryptic in her answer.

I had not needed to have her add the obvious corollary, "of defense." I had nodded, turned toward the door, and gone upstairs with the children scheming the while how to keep them on the second floor for the rest of the day.

The solution came to me before I had reached the door of the nursery. It was an old, old recipe, that of placing responsibility upon the shoulders of children in order to make them willing to obey rules.

"Boys!" I said softly, as we approached the nursery door, "do you realize that these bad Chinese may try to kidnap Baby Faith?"

TO GUARD BABY

"Oh! Mums! Oh! Auntie Madge!" they exclaimed. "They can't do it. We won't let 'em. We'll just mount guard over her every minute."

"That's just what I want you to do." I told them encouragingly. "I'll tell you all about it as soon as we have seen Grandma. Go in now, talk to her nicely, and do whatever she asks you without questioning."

"O. K.," they said, with a little swagger that almost upset my risibles, even through the stress of the moment. And then, we were inside the nursery and my mother-in-law, with relief in every line of her face and figure, rushed over to them and put her arms around both the boys.

"Oh! my precious lambs!" she said emotionally. "I was afraid something had happened to you. Promise me on your honor that you will not go downstairs again today unless someone older is with you."

The children's faces clouded perceptibly, and I could cheerfully have shaken her. If the boys thought that their remaining upstairs would protect Baby Faith, they would be content with the restriction, but to have it put upon the ground of fear for their own personal safety was an unthinkable insult to their boyish dignity.

"Of course, they'll promise you," I prompted, trying to make my look at the small boys so significant that they would remember the service for Faith I had asked of them before we had come into the nursery. "Won't you, boys?"

MADGE REPRIMANDED

"I am not aware, Margaret," my mother-in-law began acidly, and I remembered too late her propensity to offense where her dignity was concerned—"that I ever have needed your assistance in disciplining either of my grandsons. I should imagine that they would honor a request like this of mine without needing any prompting from you or anyone else."

"That is very true, mother," I said meekly, although meekness was not one of the emotions which I was feeling at the moment. "I'm sorry! I'll not interfere again."

"See that you don't!" my mother-in-law said, and I moved quickly to a vantage point from which she could not see me as I placed my finger on my lips and shook my head at Junior and Roderick, who were bristling like puppies, as they always do when anyone, even Dicky, speaks to me in a tone which they imagine is harsh.

"I am waiting, boys," she said with much dignity, "to hear your promise."

LET US PAUSE FOR A TEAR

Molly

NOTE—Everybody enjoys a good cry now and then. That is why we have engaged one of the best Sob Brothers in the business to dash off a weekly tear-jerker for this department. He is called the de Maupassant of DeBuke, Ia.

By Honeywell Ouolof, Jr.

MOLLY worked for the Joneses 15 years and had never gone nowheres on her day off, preferring to scrub and wash and shift the piano. Mr. Jones always carried the stool, as he was human though rich. One day Jones said: "Mollie, take a night off and go to the Chautauqua." Mollie hung her head. "Wot's the matta?" asked Mr. Jones, giving her a sly squeeze. "I ain't got any poils to wear," said Mollie. "Tha's awright," said Mr. Jones. "Don't tell my wife, but I will loan you her poils."

Molly, dressed as a Spanish dancer, went to the Chautauqua and spent the evening in song and laughter. There was gas food and snappy stories. When she noticed it was 9:30 she exclaimed, "I must be going home to dust and scrub and mow the grass." Her hand went to her throat. The poils was gone!

RATHER than face the Joneses without the poils, Molly walked the railroad tracks all the way to N. Y. Cartier was in bed. She tricked him into going down to the store to sell her a $50,000 string of genuine poils on credit. Then she ran all the way back to DeBuke in order to arrive before Mrs. Jones was up. Molly placed the poils in Mrs. Jones' sleeping hand and went right on working for 35 years in order to pay Cartier.

* * *

MOLLY had paid the last cent due Cartier. She was old now. And it was no easy task for her to move the piano—particularly if Mrs. Jones happened to be playing.

"Nice poils youse is wearing," said Molly, bitterly, as she glared at Mrs. Jones.

A Relief Program

The Subway, the Town Hall and Wharf Improvements Will Furnish Jobs and Benefit the Community.

In the Army schools at which officers were trained during the war it was emphasized that in a critical juncture a definite plan is necessary, and that it is better to adopt an imperfect plan than to flounder around in indecision.

In this emergency of unemployment and destitution it is important that a definite program be prepared. The public authorities and many of the private agencies to whom the people have looked for leadership have failed to submit one. Makeshifts have been resorted to when immediate action became imperative, but at other times differences of opinion, conflicting interests, jealousy and selfishness have prevented the adoption of a plan.

The Sun Telegraph is of the opinion that the way to end unemployment is not by theorizing, not by playing politics, not even by distributing alms, but by furnishing jobs, and it presents the following program by which jobs can be furnished several thousand men with benefit to the whole community.

Let the city build the downtown subway without a day's unnecessary delay. The subway is needed to relieve traffic congestion. The people authorized it a dozen years ago. The $6,000,000 of bonds with which the project can be financed have already been voted. Not until a year after the job has been done and the subway is in operation—that is, not for three years at least—will it be necessary to resort to taxation to pay interest and sinking fund charges.

The subway is a project almost made to order to serve as an unemployment reliever. The contractors who are to build the new postoffice say they will employ a thousand men. That gives some notion how many can be furnished jobs on the subway. Production of the heavy materials needed, which are largely Pittsburgh products, will supply employment to numerous others.

Traffic congestion will be relieved, an improvement effected in our rapid transit facilities, downtown real estate values increased, and business helped.

With the $6,000,000 that is available for the construction of the subway not a little unemployment relief can be given—so much indeed that the additional $5,000,000 of bonds on which the citizens are to pass in the forthcoming election may well be voted down as unnecessary.

They can be voted down with all the better grace because it is proposed to disburse $3,000,000 of the proceeds not as wages for work on public improvements, but as a dole—as alms, which will undeservedly humiliate the recipients and bring no benefit to the taxpayers who contribute the money.

The county, too, may well follow the same procedure—that is, help the unemployed by giving them jobs on public works that will permanently benefit the community, improve values and promote commerce.

The Town Hall is such a job. It will add to the county's prestige and by enabling conventions and expositions to be held in Pittsburgh which cannot come here now because of lack of accomodations will help business directly and indirectly, will bring thousands of visitors and hundreds of thousands of dollars to the city every year, and advertise it as a progressive community.

The people want the Town Hall. They voted for it, and the $6,000,000 of bonds that they authorized can be issued as soon as needed.

Litigation has held up the building, but the Supreme Court is expected to render a decision soon. If the selection of the Nicola site is upheld, let work be started.

There are other worth-while projects that the county might advantageously start now—things that have been studied for years and are clearly to the benefit of the county.

The proposed river improvements would fit into the program admirably. The Ohio River, after half a century of agitation, was finally improved a few years ago all the way from Pittsburgh to the Mississippi. But while the great steel and coal corporations were on the alert and at once proceeded to avail themselves of the opportunity afforded for cheaper transportation, the general public, the shipper of small lots of freight, was caught napping and has not yet been enabled to take full advantage of the improved waterway. Pittsburgh needs river-rail terminals and wharf improvements, and since not only the people of Pittsburgh but those of the whole county would profit by the improvements the county might well be asked to finance and construct them.

Closely if not inseparably connected with the betterment of our water transportation facilities is the protection of Pittsburgh and neighboring communities from floods. After the disastrous flood of 1907, which put 1,600 acres of the city under water, played havoc with business, and did a vast amount of property damage, an investigation was made, at a cost of $100,000, with a view to protecting the city from another such catastrophe. The engineers who conducted the survey made recommendations which it is generally agreed are marked by sound common sense. Some of the recommendations have been followed, but action has been postponed in the case of others. Why not embark on some of these projects now? Why not build the river walls and re-locate the sewers now, when to do so will relieve destitution and cost the community less than it would in normal times?

The same argument can be applied to the work on the Wabash tunnel and bridge if the county decides to purchase them.

Such enterprises as these are superior in every way to the makeshift jobs on which unemployed men have been employed in the last year by the city and county. The taxpayers are served better and the destitute fare better when they are put to work on big public improvements of permanent value than when they are merely hired from day to day on pick and shovel jobs in which no one is greatly interested.

The county may have to issue $5,000,000, possibly $10,000,000, of bonds in addition to the $6,000,000 Town Hall bonds. If it is necessary, let them be issued. The people will get something in return for their money, at any rate, if it is spent on worth-while projects.

The Sun-Telegraph relief program, while calling for the construction of public works, also takes into consideration, however, that immediate aid is required.

Moreover, the need of a conference at Harrisburg at which the state's business, political and welfare leaders should devise a plan for state-wide relief, is no less urgent than when the Sun-Telegraph first proposed it. Some way must be found for raising public funds for relief purposes other than by increasing the tax on real estate, already overburdened. Only the state can supply such a way.

No Anglo-Irish War

By Claude G. Bowers

Author of "The Struggle for Democracy in America," "Founders of the Republic," "Jefferson and Democracy," "The Tragic Era" and other important works, now writing for the Pittsburgh Sun-Telegraph.

The attitude of Ireland, under De Valera, toward the oath of allegiance and land annuities is conspicuous in the headlines, and much has been written about the mobilization of military forces in Ulster in fear of an attack from the Free State. In the Commons Mr. Thomas made the mistake the other day of striking a sensational note in announcing the Irish intention, and his colleagues in the government have moderated his tone.

One extreme radical interpreted the Government's attitude as meaning war—war between England and Ireland; and no one paid any attention to him. The thing seems absurd, especially under existing conditions. Even more improbable is the talk of armed conflict between Ulster and the Free State. There is nothing startling in De Valera's attitude toward the oath. That has been the position of his party right along. That was the issue in the late election in which he won. Whether he will find it possible to carry out his intention is on the lap of the gods.

* * *

De Valera's Attitude

Not very long ago De Valera was in the United States.

From his own lips, in answer to a question, and in conversation at a luncheon, I heard his theory as to Ulster's ultimate incorporation in the Free State. I had supposed that he occupied a radical position, and was astonished to find my theory wrong. He said that it was a matter that could not be forced, and that time alone would make it possible, and then only through a change in the feeling of Ulster. I cannot quote his exact words, but the substance was this:

"Much depends upon the Free State. Ulster is interested in the advantages of trade. We must build up an industrial life and a business activity in the Free State that will convince Ulster of the commercial advantage of amalgamation. Then Ulster has been told through the generations that with Southern Ireland free to do as it wishes, there would be a suppression or persecution of the Protestants. Nothing of the sort ever has been remotely in contemplation. Of course there is, as there will be, no such policy in the Free State. When time has shown this to be true that fear will be banished."

This impressed me at the time as the attitude of a statesman of foresight. Nothing I have seen from De Valera in the meanwhile has indicated any departure from this plan.

Thus there must be a vast amount of bunk in the preparations for war in Ulster. A few irresponsible hot-heads without authority are probably responsible for headlines entirely out of proportion with the importance of the news.

England Wants No War

But just what is to be done about the oath of allegiance is with tomorrow; and what about the land annuities? The British government has announced that both the oath and the annuities are part of the treaty through which the Free State came into existence, and that in law and honor both are binding. But it gives no indication of what steps will be taken if the oath is abolished and the money is not forthcoming.

In the old days it would have been easy to guess. Drastic laws would have been hurried through in Westminster and the army would have been set upon the march. But just now England wants no war—especially no war with Ireland. And in the event of war she would not go up against unarmed and unorganized people, but against an army about which the people could rally as a nucleus. Whatever the ultimate result, a serious wound would be inflicted on the empire. And, for generations more, Ireland would be held, if held at all, by force.

The other method is that indicated by Winston Churchill just before he sailed for America—a recourse to economic pressure, the exclusion of Irish products from the English markets. And that, too, is war—without bloodshed.

* * *

Lloyd George Has Been Silent

Thus far, so far as we know, Lloyd George has been silent on the new Irish situation. No one contributed more to the settlement made in the establishment of the Free State than he. In early days he was a rampant homeruler. There came a time when he assumed a more conservative, if not a reactionary position. In the negotiations that ended the butchery in Ireland through the granting of the status Ireland now has, he was the moving, dominating spirit.

Even Winston Churchill played a part, albeit from his own lips I have heard the major part of the credit given to the little Welshman. Just now George is the only man in public life in England capable of leading an opposition. That unquestionably is to be his role, whatever may be the status of Henderson, the proxy leader of the Labor party. But it is not probable that Lloyd George would have much stomach for basing his opposition on Ireland. He is thinking in terms of the economic policies and problems of England. His sword is sharpened for the tariff, among other things.

There certainly would be no support for De Valera in the English Parliament, unless from the left wing of the Labor party. Lloyd George could hardly lead a fight for the disrupting of the settlement he more than anyone else made.

* * *

Not Much Probability of War

And De Valera would have not only England to battle, but also the party of Cosgrave, which is a rather powerful opposition of very respectable numbers. Most of the members of the Cosgrave party were once among the followers of De Valera. Many of them were on the firing line at the time of the rising of Easter Week in 1916. The split came later. It persists. There has always been a pro-English element in Ireland which has always been against De Valera; but now there is a powerful pro-Irish element which is satisfied, for the time at least, with the settlement, which is also against him. With England against him, Ulster against him, almost half of the people of the Free State, supporting Cosgrave, against him, he is hardly in position to take extreme measures with the view to sustaining them by force.

So there is not much probability of war.

We Are Concerned with The American Famine

In the old days the prospect of anything of the sort would have caused no end of excitement in America. The Irish here, and men of Irish blood, were a unit then. The greater portion of the Americans without Irish blood were militantly pro-Irish.

In the far-off days when Parnell and Davitt came, and even later, until the World War, when others came here, they were received with fervor. Home Rule was an American issue. Everyone was demanding the restoration of the Irish Parliament at least. With the granting of the Parliament much of the fervor here died down.

Twenty years ago St. Patrick's Day speakers talked about the fight in Ireland and moved crowds to frenzy; but we do not hear these speeches now. Instead we hear talks on the Irish as a race and particularly on the Irish accomplishments in America, which have been impressive.

Aside from the merits or demerits of De Valera's present demands, there are conditions in the world today that divert attention elsewhere. We are concerned just now with the American famine. The present state of this country and the world is not auspicious for the fight De Valera has invited.

Marry-Go-Round

The Sweet and Low-Down

A "fast worker" is usually a man with a wobbly emotional tempo, who has to use speed to get ahead of his own lightning changes of heart.

* * *

* * *

A confirmed bachelor is one who always sets the alarm clock, so that it will wake him up the moment he begins dreaming of marriage. He is too proud to be a rich woman's darling, and too selfish to be a poor girl's meal-ticket.

A woman may not get so much excitement and joy out of her pleasures in life as a man does—but she gets a lot more thrills out of her "sufferings."

* * *

Every year is Leap Year as far as a bright, enterprising modern girl is concerned. No girl these days will ever die without an offer of marriage—even if she has to make it, herself.

* * *

A man is so easily fed up! Nothing tastes so good to him, upon his return from a fishing trip, as a plain, honest slice of roast beef and potatoes. And nothing looks so good to him, upon his return from a lingering honeymoon trip, as his office desk.

In selecting a husband, it is so hard for a modern woman to choose between something ornamental and expensive which will add an effective touch to her drawing room, and something plain but useful, which has to be kept out of sight, most of the time.

* * *

There is no use trying "first aid" on a dying love; the most humane thing to do is to put it out of its misery, quickly, mercifully and permanently. But a woman can never resist rushing for the ammonia and a pulmotor.

Absence may make the heart grow fonder—but at this time of year, propinquity makes the head grow dizzier.

Isn't It So?

NEW YORK DAY BY DAY

By O. O. McIntyre

NEW YORK, March 29.—This is a true story fiction editors would dismiss with a shrug as drawing the long bow. A prominent San Franciscan was promised a gay party when he came to New York by a metropolitan banker, himself royally entertained at the Bohemian Club at the Golden Gate.

The banker, living sedately, knew nothing of the frothier side of the city. The San Franciscan had "been around" and was asked by the banker to select the guests and he would settle the chit. Among those invited were a dozen orchidaceous beauties from a Broadway extravaganza.

It was surprising hoop-la for the church-going host. After blinking awhile he became utterly fascinated—in the manner of the snake charming the bird—with a vivacious blonde on his right. The more champagne she drank the more a kittenish hoyden she became. Cute!

After the party the banker delivered the California guest at his hotel and with engaging naivete confessed he had given the elfin lady a $20 gold piece. "That will compensate her for such a dull evening with an old stick-in-the-mud," he explained.

The Californian indulged a secret smile. He knew such party girls were accustomed to a thousand dollar bill or something smart in chinchilla. At any rate he returned to the west coast and three weeks later came to New York with his wife. The banker phoned in a state of fixed despair. He was hearing whispers.

The chorus girl, thinking the $20 piece was merely "for luck," scratched her initials on it along with the banker's and the date of the dinner. She was displaying it with sly winks. The banker, fearing tabloid headlines, asked his friend to get the coin at all costs.

Next evening the San Franciscan and his wife dropped into a movie. Later the chorus girl and a friend lurched in blotto and left shortly. On the way out the San Franciscan's wife picked up a dropped purse. Inside was the initialed coin. Next day he tossed it on the banker's desk with: "How's that for service?"

I wonder if the shanty boat hasn't been overlooked by novelist, playwright and scenarist. Formative years were spent on the river. In the clumsy sprawl of life among gatherers of driftwood and fishers of the mud-flats was a fiercely courageous effort to exist. Here were elemental situations, savage lusts, with the unceasing drag of the undertow, that need only expert technique to spark into exciting drama.

That peripatetic paragrapher, Bob Davis, has been such a gad-about the past few years that his crony, Irvin Cobb, says Davis cannot get a full night's sleep without somebody putting a cinder in his eye and shaking up the bed at intervals. Already this year he has lolloped 22,000 miles and is just getting going.

Studied artificialities of New York's intelligentsia are vastly amusing from side lines. Magnificently cultod, they imagine themselves collaborators with Omnipotence. Actually they are so many Tobys with swat-bladders or red-nosed zanies balancing feathers. Under strain of living up to a pseudo fame, every conversation, every situation becomes a mighty heave-ho to turn a feeble banality into a smart crack.

A few such comiques are court jesters to the rich, invited on free European tours, to Palm Beach villas and yachting cruises. When their brand of humor is not receiving sufficient outlet they have a fling at vaudeville or movie shorts. At least once.

An incredibly unkempt and lovelorn lady of the Village Attics has attempted suicide often—by cutting her throat with a chocolate eclaire, jumping into a dry well, etc. In her last try she overdosed herself with headache powders. A wag wagged: "Some day she's going to try washing powder—and make the grade."

LISTEN, WORLD

By Elsie Robinson

And the kids are a great success. Alice May is 17 now—a fine, big girl — going to be a beauty some day. And young Bill's 15—but looks three years older. You can't blame Ed and Edith for being mighty proud of their children—

Alice May, as I've said, is 17. Typical athletic American girl. Crazy about tennis, swimming, riding, snow sports. But, of course, that isn't all. If you know anything about 17-year-old femmes you'll realize that young Alice May is all aseethe with certain speculations that have nothing to do with tennis or football. In short, she's taking a very lively and most natural interest in The Other Sex.

Likewise young Bill. Bill's in the throes of his first Grand Pash. She's a blonde hasher down in the Bee Hive, and easily four years his senior. But age and social distinctions mean nothing to Bill, who has suddenly broken out in a violent rash of new neckties, socks, hair lotions and wart cures.

All of which, as we said before, is perfectly natural . . . as inevitable as teething or colic. And you'd expect wise, careful Dad and Mom Patterson to realize that fact. But you'd expect wrong! For though they've met every other parental emergency with superb good humor and good sense, they're muffing this particular ball all over the lot.

Does not Mom Edith, remembering her own 17-year-old dreams, invite the Boys in, get a new bunch of dance records and set the stage for Romance. Yes, she does NOT. Instead—

"Alice May is such a comfort," she boasts to her friends, in Alice May's presence. "Just the sort of nice, wholesome little girl I hoped she'd be. Boy crazy? My dear! Why the child never gives a thought to boys!"

And Alice May, listening, feels hot and angry and ashamed. For every tingle and throb of her awakening young body is thinking of nothing but Boys! And how should it be otherwise? Yet—maybe if she were really a nice girl, like mother thinks she is, she wouldn't feel that way—Maybe it's just because she's horrid and bad—

Sick at the thought of her own horridness, Little Alice May sidles away from mother's trusting eyes—carrying her guilty secret with her...wondering how she's going to meet boys without mother knowing!

Upstairs, standing before his mirror, struggling with his new "lay-back," young Bill is having his bad quarter of an hour. Mother and dad do not ignore nor deny Bill's new heart interest. Instead, they have decided to Laugh It Off. So from morning till night, Bill endures an unmerciful razzing. Bill grins miserably in answer. Sneaks off, as soon as they'll let him. Sits in his room glowering, brooding—sex, that should be to him a radiant revelation, darkening into a murky secret.

Queer creatures—parents! Most of them would, without an instant's hesitation, lay down their lives for their youngsters. For years, they toil and sacrifice without stint, to guard their children physically. YET WHEN THESE CHILDREN APPROACH THEIR FIRST GREAT SPIRITUAL EXPERIENCE, WHAT DO THEY DO? Chat it off! Laugh it away! Turn the thing that should be natural and sweet and sacred, into forbidden fruit. Create confusions, erect barriers, which it may take years to destroy . . . which often mar and scar a sensitive spirit's whole life. Then say it doesn't matter because "it's only puppy love!"

Once Overs

By J. J. Mundy

Isn't it a fact that when you meet prominent persons you become self-conscious because you think you have nothing to say that will interest them.

You strive at conversation along some line in which they have excelled.

Why make the mistake of giving your poorly conceived ideas on a man's work when you know so little about the subject.

Instead of showing how little you know about his line, why don't you try to direct the conversation along some line upon which you have some worthwhile information.

Public speakers are bored too often by those who come to them after a lecture or address with thoughts upon the subject chosen by the speaker.

It is not often that he is told a story that he could or would use.

Those who lecture on scientific subjects must listen to objections to the theories they present and from those who have little knowledge.
